Kaplan Heads Uptown Business Association

Annual Election of Officers Held Thursday Evening at The Kirkland — Dollar Day on Wednesday, August 14.

Morris Kaplan of the Kaplan furniture store on North Front street was unanimously elected president of the Uptown Business Men's Association at the annual meeting held Thursday evening at the Kirkland Hotel on Main street. Benjamin Fein of the New York Sample Shop in Wall street, was elected vice president, and L. F. Port of the National Ulster County Bank and Trust Company on Wall street, was re-elected secretary and treasuer.

The annual meeting was preceded by the serving of an excellent dinner in the private dining room at the hotel.

Following the serving of the dinner the association held a brief business session in which it was outlined what steps had been taken to make the Dollar Day to be held on Wednesday, August 14, a rousing success. The two big events that day in Kingston will be the Dollar Day of the uptown association and the annual Farm and Home Bureau picnic at Forsyth Park.

In order that those from out of town who expect to spend the day at the picnic may also have an opportunity to do some shopping and take advantage of the many bargains to be offered on Dollar Day it is expected that the stores of the members of the Uptown Business Men's Association will be kept open that evening until 9 o'clock.

President Morris Kaplan announced that he would appoint his committees before the next meeting of the association.

Aside from electing officers and discussing what had been done to advertise Dollar Day but little business was transacted at the meeting.

The retiring president, C. E. Wonderly, presided at the business meeting and was complimented on his work as president of the association.

The reports of the retiring officers showed that the association had enjoyed a busy and prosperous year and would close its fiscal year on September 1, with a handsome balance in the treasury.

"AND THE END IS NOT YET" SAYS AVIATION BULLETIN.

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP).—A peep into the future of aviation is contained in an "Air Commerce Bulletin" just published by the Commerce Department.

"And the end is not yet," is the opinion of the brief forecast which says:

"Automatic pilots may control the passenger plane in the near future. Diesel-type engines are already here, gas burning power plants are thought of, and screws adjustable in flight will provide the airplane with the equivalent of the speed-change mechanism of the automobile.

"The floating airport is under construction and one can anticipate launching devices and arresting gear applied to commercial flights. The private pilot who flies for the fun and in the course of his daily routine is now beginning to fly here, there and everywhere and the airplane is rapidly coming within the price range of the average wage earner."

ADVOCATES INTERNATIONAL TARIFF COMMISSION

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 2 (AP).—Establishment of an international commission for the regulation of tariff was advocated today by Thomas W. Page, widely known tariff expert, as a means of establishing permanent amicable trade relations throughout the world.

In an address before the trade relations round table of the Institute of Politics, Dr. Page, former chairman of the United States tariff commission and now chairman of the council of the Institute of Economics at Washington, D. C., proposed that such a commission be established under the jurisdiction of the world court.

"The purpose of such a commission would be to establish findings as to what is fair and equitable between different nations and their industries and peoples, and render opinions about which world opinions could crystalize," he said.

Postal Telegraph Hours.

An additional operator has been added to the Postal Telegraph Company force at the John street office. The office will be kept open from now on until 10 o'clock each night for the receipt and sending of messages instead of closing at 8 o'clock evenings. This will be appreciated by the many local patrons of the Postal.

Dies With Six Dumdum Bullets in Body

Philadelphia, August 2 (AP).—"Big Arthur" Callen, 38, who escaped gangsters' bullets several times through the use of an armored automobile, was shot to death early today by a lone gunman at Parkside and Memorial avenues.

Six dumdum bullets were found in Callen's body. He was shot by a man who pursued him along Memorial avenue. After firing twice, the gunman followed Callen, firing several shots as the wounded man fell against a door in the rear of his apartment house.

As the gunman opened fire again Callen struggled to his feet, leaped a three-foot iron fence, and fell. Jumping the fence, the gunman reloaded and sent another hail of bullets at Callen.

The killer walked to a parked automobile a short distance away and was whisked away by an accomplice.

Although arrested many times, Callen was never convicted, and always protested he was now "out of the racket".

Sensible Reply to Edison Question

All but Four of 49 Contestants Took More Than Five Hours Allotted—Say Examination Was "Pretty Tough".

West Orange, N. J., Aug. 2 (AP).—Forty-nine hopeful future Edisons today anxiously awaited announcement on how they fared at the hands of the master.

All but four contestants for the Thomas A. Edison scholarship required more than the allotted five hours to answer the series of questions propounded by the inventor, numerous of the queries being of a nature that would have stumped many an elder.

John Lowey, of Brainerd, Minn., was the first to finish. Soon after, Lloyd Mitchell, of Florence, Ala.; Albert F. Kunze of Columbus, Ga., and Lyle Strub Lutton of Laurel, Md., emerged from the examination room.

The comment of all four was: "It was pretty tough."

To the question, "If I were alone on a tropic island without tools, how would I move a three-ton boulder 15 feet vertically and 100 feet horizontally." Most of the boys offered proposals to construct a long incline and use levers. But Ward P. Earley, of Utah, remarked, "What a foolish question! My answer was: "Why move the rock?"

The boys have made plans to form an organization to be known as "The Edison Forty-Niners", of which the winner of the scholarship will be president and Mr. Edison the honorary president.

The county convention will recommend candidates for member of assembly, sheriff, coroner and superintendent of the poor, and seven delegates to the judicial convention to be held in Albany on September 25.

Favors Some "Free Ports".

Washington, August 2 (AP).—Chairman O'Connor of the shipping board, after a lengthy investigation of the situation, has concluded "that free ports or foreign trade zones, properly located in some of the existing ports of the United States, might have a stimulating effect on port growth and foreign trade." Free ports are those to which raw materials from abroad are brought, manufactured and then reshipped without duty.

Washington Spent $160,674 In Eight Years

Record of Money Spent as Commander in Chief Now a Priceless Manuscript—Spent $17,617 on His Spy Service.

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP).—George Washington's Revolutionary ledger, showing that as commander in chief of the new republic's forces in its long war of independence he spent only $160,074 of public funds, has just been removed from the government's files for the use of American historians.

The ledger covered the eight year period from Washington's assumption of the Revolutionary army's command in June, 1775, to the signing of the peace treaty at Paris, and for nearly 150 years has lain, thick with dust, in the records of the government's general accounting office.

In it, Washington daily recorded with quill and ink his expenses and with careful and explicit notations accounted for every expenditure, citing whether it was for "household expenses", reconnaissances of the enemy's forces" or for purchase of equipment. It fills about 100 pages which now form a priceless manuscript.

Besides recording the living expenses of his staff and himself and the expenditures for their military activities, the ledger shows Washington bore out of the funds at his disposal the cost of his army's "secret intelligence" or spy service. Between 1775 and 1781, he spent $17,617 on his spy system, listing various payments to "unnamed persons" so their identities would not be revealed.

The book presents a chronological summary of Washington's movements in the Revolution and each of his battles. For the first two years he itemized his expenses in terms of pounds sterling, but after 1777 his accounts were in terms of both dollars and the English currency, the latter column being headed "lawful money."

The first news items illustrated the variety of his accounts. On June 1, 1775, he purchased for 239 pounds five horses "for the journey from Philadelphia to the army at Cambridge, Mass."; a few days later he spent three pounds "for a gun and accoutrements" and on July 24 of that year he paid two pounds five shillings "to a French cook."

In his 1777 accounts he recorded expenditures "during the retreat through the Jerseys to Pennsylvania and later in the same year a $1,037 item for expenses on the march from Germantown, Pa., "until we hutted at Valley Forge for the winter."

Frequently entries were made for reconnaissances of the commander-in-chief "sometimes with and sometimes without the army but generally with only a party of horse." The expeditions, these records show, were to scout the British forces or to lay out the American army's battle plan or defensive positions by personal observation. They constituted a major item of his accounts—a total of $42,755.

For household expenses during the eight years, his accounts totaled $69,250 and in his daily accounts he itemized even such small expenditures as on June 18, 1777, "for washing, 6 shillings, 18 pence."

SAYS KEEP BUSY AND EAT FRUITS AND VEGETABLES.

Washington, August 2 (AP).—The first item in a hot weather program suggested by Surgeon General Cumming of the public health service, is "keep busy".

"A cheerful frame of mind," he explained, is the most important safeguard against heat suffering. He said the easiest way to attain it was to think of things other than the weather.

"Glancing at turf records," he added, "one sees that some of the best records have been made in hot weather. I believe that humans also are capable of as much work, mental and physical, in hot as in cool weather."

Of summer diet, he remarked that "the normal palate is a dependable guide; the best things to eat are the things one wants—fruits and vegetables."

He suggested drinking at least six to eight glasses of water daily, and praised the modern woman's lightness of dress.

The Curtiss Flying Service announced that the endurance flight champions and their refueling crew would visit twelve other cities on a tour to demonstrate refueling in flight.

One Killed, Several Wounded In Prison Riot

Leavenworth Scene of Latest Outbreak—Volley from Riot Guns Turns Rush—Food, Extreme Heat and "Suggestion" Given as Causes.

United States Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kas., Aug. 2 (AP).—One convict was killed, four other prisoners were shot, three dangerously, and several were slightly injured in a riot at the prison here yesterday that lasted more than a half day before it was quelled.

Mike Martinez, a Mexican, who had served one year of a 30-year term, was shot to death. Another prisoner's leg was so badly mangled by a bullet that it was amputated at the prison hospital. Three others were in the hospital suffering from severe gunshot wounds. Several were wounded only slightly.

The last of the rioting prisoners was in his cell and the prison was quiet late last night. Guards with machine guns mounted on the prison walls prevented any escapes during the disturbance.

There were numerous reports as to the cause of the outbreak but prison officials declined to confirm or deny any of them. One report said the riot, which broke out in the mess hall at noon, was a protest against prison food and the absence of ice in drinking water. Another said the prisoners who had been permitted to read newspaper accounts of riots in eastern prisons had yielded to the suggestion. A third report laid it to heat-crazed narcotic addicts, the temperature standing at 100.3 degrees at noon yesterday.

The hurling of food and the porcelain dishes marked the beginning of the riot shortly after 2,200 of the 3,758 prisoners in the institutions entered the mess hall after they had listened to a plea by Captain P. J. Karny, in command of the hall, to return to their cells. Another demonstration was staged and the convicts, armed with knives and forks and clubs obtained by breaking furniture, flocked into the jail yard.

Armed guards arrived several minutes later and with a command to the convicts to return to their cells, fired a volley of shots from their riot guns. Several prisoners fell and the others went to their cells.

Inside the cell houses, the riot began in earnest. The convicts, using the knives and forks, and crowbars and other tools obtained in the jail yard, tampered with triplicate locks on cell tiers, broke down cell doors, and shattered windows.

The riot extended in the afternoon to all sections of the prison but the entire prison was not in a state of mutiny at once.

It was reported that the last disturbance was in the middle mess hall at the evening meal, the prisoners "milling about." The leaders were quickly taken into custody and all the convicts sent to their cells.

None of the prisoners had firearms during the disturbance and none of the prison officials was injured.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2 (AP).—The Department of Justice announced today that a report from Warden Thomas B. White said the riot in Leavenworth prison was due to the overcrowded condition of the prison and lack of work for the prisoners.

Zeppelin Speeds Across Atlantic

(By The Associated Press).

The huge air liner Graf Zeppelin was hitting a rapid clip as she sped across the Atlantic today on her second voyage to the United States.

At 7:30 o'clock this morning, eastern standard time, she reported to the radio station at Casablanca, Morocco, that she was 600 miles west of Gibraltar. She was headed toward the Azores.

The last previous report was at two o'clock this morning when the dirigible reported her position about 265 miles west of Gibraltar, and said that weather conditions were "good." She was then speeding along at an average of from 65 to 70 miles an hour.

The Zeppelin had encountered strong head winds over France and parts of the Mediterranean, but began to pick up speed in accordance with Dr. Hugo Eckener's expectations as soon as she reached the Atlantic.

The air liner at 7:30 had more than 3,000 miles to cover before reaching Lakehurst. If she could maintain a speed of 60 to 65 miles an hour, it would take about 50 more hours of flying, or a total of about 85 hours to bring her into Lakehurst about 9:30 a. m., eastern standard time Sunday.

Dr. Eckener had planned to make the trip in from 80 to 85 hours.

The air liner was eating up the miles over the Atlantic, maintaining roughly a speed of 70 miles an hour with improved weather conditions. Her next turning point was the Azores, where Dr. Hugo Eckener planned to choose a northern or southern route to Lakehurst, N. J.

La Guardia Vs. Walker in Finish Fight

Republican Nominee for Mayor of New York Says He Will Expect No Quarter and Give None.

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Fiorello H. La Guardia, swarthy little fighting man who grew up on an Arizona army post and later fought his way up from private to major in the A. E. F., has been picked by New York city republicans to run for mayor this fall against the debonair "Jimmy" Walker.

The major, after his selection last night by the party chiefs, opened his campaign forthwith by yelling in a stentorian voice that made some of the milder party leaders on the platform jump: "Jimmy, this fight is on the level! The days of fifty-fifty politics are over. I expect no quarter, and I'll give none. The campaign is now started."

Last night's unofficial Republican convention was a complete victory for Congressman La Guardia. His was the only name presented to the delegates.

Whatever sort of campaign they put up, Fiorello H. La Guardia and James J. Walker will at least furnish a striking contrast in personalities.

"Jimmy" is known the world over for his wit, his amiability, and his dapper appearance.

La Guardia also is short in stature, but heavier than "Jimmy," square-shoulders, olive-skinned, with a booming voice and magnificent black scowl.

While "Jimmy" Walker's speeches sparkle with humor and carry through them all a vein of sentiment, the public utterances of "the Major," as La Guardia's friends call him, are straight from the shoulder, full of fight, and all business.

He bolted from the Republican party in 1924 and got himself elected to Congress on the Farmer-Labor ticket. In 1926, however, he was re-elected as a Republican. He describes himself as an independent Republican.

He has been a consistent foe of prohibition. Three years ago he publicly manufactured beer in his office in the House office building in an unsuccessful attempt to get arrested and test the law.

He has been an apostle of disarmament for many years—even when such ideas drew heavy criticism. But in 1917 he voted for war and the draft and then marched himself over to the war department and enlisted. In less than a week, Private Fiorello H. La Guardia was on his way to France, the first member of Congress to get into action. By the end of the war he was a major in the air force.

LARGEST OHIO LIQUOR RAID CLEANS UP "WETTEST SPOT".

Youngstown, Ohio, August 2 (AP).—Liquor raids exceeding in proportions any ever seen by federal prohibition agents in Ohio cleaned out the "steel town" of Campbell last night and early today. Fifty enforcement officers demolished half a hundred speakeasies, arrested 49 men and women, and dumped gallons of whiskey and beer into gutters.

All the raids were made on purchases already made by undercover agents, raiders said.

Campbell, a suburb of Youngstown, described by agents as "the wettest spot in Ohio", is populated principally by workers in the steel mills. Hundreds of these collected in the streets as the raids went on, and at one place more than 500 gathered about the agents, jeering and booing. Emergency squads of federal men were summoned and there was no serious outbreak.

The time set for the first onslaught was 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and from that hour until early this morning the raids went on.

FORMER WAR LORD SHOOTS CHINESE PRINCE.

Tokyo, August 2 (AP).—Chang Tsung Chang, former war lord of Manchuria, early today shot and seriously wounded Prince Hsien Kai, cousin of the one time boy emperor of China, P'U-Yi. Most mysterious circumstances surrounded the shooting, which Chang claimed was accidental.

Chang's version of the shooting was that a revolver which he was handling upstairs at his hotel at Beppu, Island of Kiushiu, was discharged, the bullet hitting the prince, who was standing in the garden below.

Hsien Kai is 21 years old. He graduated from the Japanese Military Academy in July. He was spending a vacation in Beppu and had visited Chang on the evening of the shooting.

The authorities are investigating the accident story.

To Argue B'way Crossing Appeal In September

Appeal of City From Public Service Order Directing That Street Be Depressed Before Appellate Court.

It is expected that the city's appeal from the order of the state public service commission directing that the Broadway crossing of the West Shore railroad be eliminated by the depression of the street, will be heard by the appellate division at Albany the latter part of September.

At the time the public service commission handed down its order directing that the work of depressing Broadway start this year, an appeal from the order was taken by the city. This appeal was filed with the appellate division and has been set down for argument the latter part of next month.

Borah Favors Scrapping of British Ships

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP).—Unlike many who have expressed views on means of attaining parity between all branches of the British and American navies, Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee apparently would rather see British scrapping of ships than American building or a combination of the two.

"If Great Britain will follow our example at the Washington conference and sink some of her ships and thus come to parity," he suggests, "it will not only save the taxpayer but reduce the incentive to war—for huge armaments are always an incentive to war, parity or no parity. But if we have to build up to parity, it vastly increases the burdens of the taxpayer and augments the incentive to war."

Borah's statement, issued 24 hours after a White House luncheon, revived curiosity as to the Chief Executive's opinions as to various means of attaining the desired end. No indication was given, however, that the Idaho senator might be reflecting the opinions of the President.

Senator Borah described as "very discouraging news" dispatches from London to the effect that Great Britain will not reduce its cruisers, holding that "if parity were used to justify the building of huge armaments, it would become a menace instead of a security."

"Parity with reduction means much, means a great deal," he said. "But parity coupled merely with limitation, means very little. If I understand the report of our Navy Department correctly, Great Britain now has 59 modern cruisers, built or building. We now have 18 modern cruisers, built or building."

Russia States Three Conditions

Moscow, Aug. 2 (AP).—The Soviet union government, taking its first public notice of Quasi-official efforts to reach a peaceable settlement of the Chinese Eastern railway controversy with China, today announced three drastic conditions as a solution of the problem raised by Chinese seizure of the railroad.

The conditions were:

(1) Liberation of Soviet workers and civil service men held in Manchuria.

(2) Appointment by the Soviet government of both manager and assistant manager of the disputed railroad.

(3) A conference to be called immediately for negotiating questions arising out of the conflict.

In addition it was said both China and Russia would have to agree to admit a changed status of the railway as a result of its seizure and subject to further change in accordance with the Peiping and Mukden agreements of 1924.

After [illegible] available sites for the [illegible] of a proposed new state armory here, which were inspected last Friday, Adjutant General of New York State Franklin T. Ward has chosen the driving park at the end of North Manor avenue as the most suitable site for the armory of the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks of this city.

Dr. George F. Chandler, former major of the local National Guard unit, when it was an infantry outfit, and organizer of the state Troopers.

Raphael A. Exan of Newburgh, colonel of the 156th Field Artillery.

O. B. Hilliebrant of this city, major of the 156th Field Artillery.

Charles N. Behrens of Kingston, a captain in the First Battalion, 156th Field Artillery.

The site selected is at the end of North Manor avenue and its dimensions are approximately 800x900 feet. It is part of the property containing stables now used to shelter the horses of the artillery, and is said to be an ideal place for the construction of the proposed new armory.

Money for the preparation of plans has already been appropriated by the state legislature and it is expected that money for the actual construction of the armory will be contained in the next state budget.

The board of supervisors of Ulster county has been asked in a letter to appropriate money for the purchase of the new armory site. If the supervisors choose to appropriate money for the purchase of the driving park, now owned by William D. Brinnier, Jr., the present armory will be sold at auction after the construction of the proposed new structure and the amount realized will be used to pay for the new site.

DEMONSTRATING PISTOL, SHOOT WARD; KILLS SELF.

Elizabethtown, Tenn., August 2 (AP).—John Burnette, 27, prominent Elizabethton attorney, accidentally shot and seriously wounded his 17-year-old ward, Virginia Amaral, last midnight and after calling a physician, killed himself.

Burnette's wife told officers her husband was teaching her how to load a pistol and the weapon discharged, wounding Miss Amaral, who was standing nearby.

Burnette ran for a doctor. While the doctor was examining Miss Amaral, Burnette picked up the pistol, walked to the front porch and shot himself.

He then returned to his bride and ward, told them "Goodbye" and slumped across a bed. The doctor said sheer determination enabled him to walk from the porch into the room with a bullet wound near his heart.

At the hospital, physicians said Miss Amaral's condition was "very critical".

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Washington—Notwithstanding his presence in a hot city during a hot wave, Mr. Hoover, week ends excepted, is at his desk promptly and remains until late in the day. He has told callers the heat does not bother him.

Paris—Raymond Poincare is noted for his marvelous memory. The secret of it is that he remembers, word for word, what he writes. Often, prior to his illness, he wrote all night in longhand.

Savannah—The oldest member of the American Legion is dead at 72. Henry G. Green served in the Spanish-American War and was a second lieutenant in France.

Vatican City—Among purchases of the new Vatican stamps on the first day the Papal post offices did business was one of $150,000 worth.

Howden, England—Somebody is willing to pay $25,000 for transatlantic passage on the new dirigible R-100. The application is among several hundred received. The ship has yet to make its first flight.

Akron, Ohio—In a glider Hugh C. Robbins has flown 150 miles from Ypsilanti, Mich. The glider was towed by a plane at 60 miles an hour, as fast as it could move without endangering its wings.

Rochester, N. Y.—Aswa, an ape six feet tall and weighing 400 pounds is dead because food of captivity did not suit him like that of his native Dutch East Indian jungle. Once he ate 78 bananas daily. Finally he refused food altogether and it took ten men to administer medicine.

New York—Fish that can change from black to white at will have arrived at the Municipal Aquarium. They were caught near the Bahamas.

A Richmond, Va., woman left $1,000 to assure her pet dog being cared for after her death.

Republican Ward Caucuses

The Republican party will hold caucuses in all of the wards of the city on Saturday evening for the purpose of electing three delegates from each voting district to attend the Republican county convention to be held at the Auditorium Theatre on Pine Grove avenue on Saturday morning, August 10, at 11 o'clock.

The convention is held for the purpose of recommending to the [illegible] rolled Republicans of the county candidates for the nomination of member of assembly, sheriff, county and superintendent of the poor.

Modern Upkeep

There's one thing in common with fountain pens, patent cigar lighters, automobile tanks and small boys: Unless they're kept well filled they cause trouble.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

VOORHIS PROVES WHAT?

Inevitably most centenarians have arrived at a period wherein they "just sit and sit", with little to do and perhaps less inclination to do even that little, their minds more active than their bodies and more occupied with matters of the distant past than with the bewildering spectacle of the hurrying present. But John R. Voorhis of New York city, who celebrated his 100th birthday on July 27, is a notable exception. He is not only amazingly active for a man of his years but enters his second century while still in office as Tammany's Grand Sachem and President of the Board of Elections. After interviewing reporters and camera men from the movies had taken up rather too much of his time, he characteristically remarked that "office work must be got through, century mark or no century mark". Was there ever such a record as this?

There is a notion that big-city life is unhealthy, with its wear and tear on the nerves, but Mr. Voorhis, born in New Jersey 100 years ago, has triumphantly survived 99 years of residence in New York, our greatest and supposedly most nerve-racking city. The extent of the changes he has witnessed during that long period almost baffle the imagination. He has not only seen a small city expand into a great world metropolis but has been a spectator of innumerable changeful developments of every sort including unforeseen revolutions of the political whirligig. The year of his birth reaches all the way back to the investment of Henry Clay with the leadership of the Whig party and the inauguration of Andrew Jackson as President of the United States. The still active mind of the venerable Voorhis is crowded with memories of historical interest.

END OF A DREAM.

Though the British Labor party is supposedly to have "nationalization" reforms up its sleeve, it is likely to have been given pause by the recent defeat of the Queensland Labor party after being in office fourteen years. The Labor government of this great section of Australia appears to have taken over its entire business, providing state fish markets, restaurants and butcher shops as well as state railroads. It raised salaries right and left, but instead of being cheapened the cost of living "jumped". Among other undesirable results the following are mentioned: "The railway men got the notion that the roads were run for them. The coal miners thought the same of the mines. The cost of mining a ton of coal was a good deal more than it would sell for." Yet the system was continued under two succeeding labor governments, with no let up in the losses.

Queensland borrowed $25,000,000 and is said to have lost no less than $18,500,000 on its socialistic enterprises. It has also lost much money it would otherwise have received in taxes, and both unemployment and the cost of living have increased. The new government recently elected plans to put an end to such expensive experiments but the difficulties confronting it may be readily imagined. Obviously here is impressive warning for the British Labor government and for all governments urged to take over the control and management of industry. No doubt such socialism theoretically has in view the doing of justice to all, but the wisdom, experience and incorruptibility necessary to the success of so tremendous an undertaking are lacking.

Referring to the mannerisms of Ambassador Dawes and his "explosive" style of speechmaking, which have caused his British listeners to "sit up and take notice" and London newspapers to intimate that they would delight to hear him go as far as his celebrated "Hell and Maria", the Springfield Republican expresses the opinion that the General "has begun by making a very favorable impression", but adds: "There could hardly be a greater contrast than between the Dawes delivery and the [illegible] polished but brilliant utterances of John W. Davis, not to mention other distinguished predecessors of Gen. Dawes in his present post."

One of the most spectacular incidents of the bull movement in Wall Street has been the jumping of National Bank stock more than $500 a share in a single day. A detail of that jump was the increase of the fortune of George F. Baker, master-banker, by the neat little sum of $11,000,000. Any banker might call that a pretty good day's work. Still, it's all a matter of proportion. When you have enough bank stock, already worth $7,[illegible] a share, to gain $11,000,000 value in a day, the few extra millions don't matter much. It's a fellow's first modest profits that look big.

The recklessly inattentive fast driver at intersections is declared by the Rhode Island highway inspector to be responsible for more than 70 per cent of the automobile accidents in that state. Probably this is true in every state. One of the remedies imperatively needed is enforcement of cautious driving at intersections, and unfortunately this is possible to only a limited extent.

Many blunderers have put their heads into the lion's mouth in a metaphorical sense, but the first man who ever ventured to do it literally was Charles Forepaugh, the showman, who has just died at the age of 91, and even he no doubt first saw to it that the fearsome creature was completely tamed or doped.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

DON'T NEGLECT VACATION

The fact that previous vacations have not given you the rest you believe you needed, should not make you forget that everybody needs a rest, a change, at least once or twice a year.

You are apt to think that perhaps your brain needs a rest but your body does not, or vice versa.

Now the very fact that you feel a bit tired, your work is not interesting to you, and you feel restless and irritable, are definite signs that you are not well, that you have disease, that is that you are not at ease.

If you have an infection from teeth, tonsils, sinuses, intestine or gall bladder, you have dis-ease.

Why?

Because the product from any of these infections is poison to the system, and it this poison that gives you the symptoms of tiredness, restlessness and irritability.

Now you can get these poisons, that work on the system in the same manner, from overuse of your brain or body.

Every thought of your brain, every action of your body, burns up tissue and creates poison. These poisons are definite combinations just like other poisons.

If the circulation of your blood is active it carries out these poisons from the system almost as soon as they are made, aided of course by sleep, which by keeping brain and body working for the time being, permits the circulation to get rid of these "fatigue" poisons as they are called.

Now why not sleep more, and do without a vacation?

Because the routine things you do with brain and body every day should be stopped, should be changed to something else. Your eyes, ears, nose, taste, should have a new or different impulses sent through them to the brain.

It is this change that removes tension and gives relaxation.

Relaxation is best obtained by going where you want to go and doing what you want to do just for a couple of weeks.

Fire Engine in Air Proves Its Utility

New York.—The aerial fire engine has made its appearance.

An airplane equipped with tanks for a special extinguishing fluid recently demonstrated its utility by extinguishing a brush fire on Long Island, N. Y., within a few minutes.

The fluid was sprayed from the plane at a rate of one gallon per acre, the plane flying low over the fire and the liquid being spread by the propeller slip-stream. The fluid generates a gas which smothers the flame.

For the Love of a Lady

by Jeffery Farnol

SYNOPSIS: [illegible] Helen [illegible] Julian's message [illegible] Tom Pitt [illegible] Richard [illegible] to Helen's demands that they search the mill for another letter, which, Julian's message says, is hidden there. [illegible] deciphers the puzzle and [illegible] loose brick—they find the other paper.

Chapter 24

JULIAN'S MESSAGE

FOR a moment Sir Richard and Helen eyed the paper, then he smoothed it and began to read:

"My dear Richard—I have been killed——"

The sound of hurried footsteps checked him abruptly. A moment later Gregory and old Truffeni stood in the door.

"Quick sir!" he whispered. "Tom Pitt's roused the town—swears he's seen Mr. Julian and you, too. The hunt'll be up after you by this—begone with dame Truffeni!"

"Greg," Sir Richard exclaimed. "See my lady Helen safe home." And turning to her, he spoke a hurried farewell.

"And you, Richard—" my lady asked.

"Faith, Helen, I must needs hide again."

"Why then," said she, "I pray God keep thee in His mercy," and taking Gregory's arm, sped away.

"Should ha' kissed her, my chavo," spake Truffeni's soft voice and Sir Richard moved toward her.

"Ay, Truffeni," said he, hastening toward her, "now bless thee, good mother, right trusty friend."

"Still my chavo, should ha' kissed her. She implores God's care on thee."

"Women be strange creatures, Truffeni."

"And men be such children."

"Whither go we, good dame?"

"Where you shall sleep safe, for by your look sleep's your need."

"In faith, and that's true enough!" he signed. "Also this hath proved a night o' disappointments. . . . Though I have cousin Julian's hidden message, it is nothing to my purpose."

Sir Richard bowed and, in silence, followed the strange old gypsy whither she lead ever deeper into the wilderness until at last they came to a row of tents, before which glistened a cheerful fire.

Here they halted and the man Wentzelow advanced, spoke with Truffeni in the strange, soft gypsy tongue. Then she turned to Sir Richard to speak:

"We o' the poor folks has eyes and uses 'em. This arternoon, the Viscount sets out for Lonnon, but doubles back to Seaford and there he's seen a-talkin' with Jonas Skag and two other rogues. Wot's more, these same rogues is now a-laying at the Black 'oss in the village. And for why, Richard?"

"Mischief," nodded Sir Richard. "I must stir; I must to work."

"Ay, my chavo, ye must sleep."

The little shadowy tent looked cosy and inviting, but Sir Richard, shaking resolute head, seated himself beside old Truffeni and drew a crumpled paper from his pocket.

"My thanks, kind friend," sighed he wearily, "but though I yearn for sleep, I could not until you have heard this. So Truffeni, hearken and counsel me."

And bending to the firelight he read aloud as follows:

"'My dear Richard,

"I have been killed by three or one of three, of the following reasons, to wit:

"1. By Tom Pitt (possibly) because I know him for convict returned from transportation.

"2. Captain Despard (possibly) because I hold proofs that he was once the notorious highwayman and malefactor Captain Archer sometimes called Captain Midnight.

"3. Viscount Brocklehurst (probably) because I have his signed confession to the killing of young Allison, whose untimely decease was put off on you, Dick. The proofs of all this I have hid in the third volume of Montaigne's Essays in the library at Weare. Use them, and you will to avenge thy forlorn and remorseful cousin

'JULIAN'"

"So there it is!" sighed Sir Richard despondently. "That doth advantage my case no whit, for though I prove the Viscount guilty of killing Mr. Allison, here is no proof that I did not kill my cousin Julian."

"Then," said the old gypsy, "then must we force pr[illegible] f. Why doth a dead man walk?"

"Ah!" he exclaimed. "You . . . mean——!"

"That we must bait a trap, set a snare to wring truth from tongue unwilling. The dead shall not walk in vain—ah, no! We must spread a net—"

Truffeni, rising, brought him into a tent set somewhat apart and larger than the others: here she set pens, ink and paper before him.

"Now write as I bid ye, and as much like your cousin Mr. Julian's hand as maybe," and he wrote this at her dictation:

"Dear Richard:
"You shall find the sealed packet of my secret papers relating to Brocklehurst behind the midmost post in the Moat House Gardens.
"JULIAN."

"Nay, but," said Sir Richard, "think ye this shall draw him?"

"I'll warrant me! And he shall there find that he doth not expect—Aha, that which shall open his lips ere he know it and drag thence the truth despite himself."

Truffeni held up a finger for silence, and they heard a voice afar that chanted snatches of psalms, as they stepped out of the tent. . . . For a long mome-- they stood, then the underbrush was burst asunder and a wild figure leapt into the fire-light—hatless, wigless, without coat or waistcoat.

Instantly the camp was all astir, faces peered, voices whispered, knives gleamed. Truffeni clapped her hands, spoke three or four words, gestured imperiously and the whispers were hushed, the faces glimmered and vanished.

Sir Richard, blinking at the awful figure beyond the fire, saw a small, haggard face topped by a stubble of white hair, saw arms tossed, one swathed in a bloody clout.

"Vengeance!" cried a shrill voice. "Brethren, 'tis writ 'inasmuch as ye did it unto one o' the least o' these' . . . [illegible]t, sirs, he was my father, a man guiltless and innocent, and they hanged him by perjury . . . Titus Oldcraft took him and swore his life away. . . . Jonathan Wild pouched the blood-money. Titus first, and when he lieth dead I'll mark him i' the brow like Cain. . . . Vengeance . . . ! Blood . . . !"

And then Black Nick sprang into the fire-glow to clasp this distraught figure in comforting arms.

"Nay, now . . . nay, Rob; easy, lad! Comfort ye—there's none but friends and good pals here."

"But Oldcraft lives . . . lives . . . and killed my father!"

"So-ho, Rob, so-ho!" murmured Nick, patting the other's tear-wet cheek. "Easy, lad! . . . Lord, Mrs. Camlo, ma'm, poor Rob's been a wild man all night, and me a-watchin' of 'ee, but no sooner do I close my peepers than 'e's up and away, ma'm. 'Tis beyond me, he is——"

"'Tis the fever, Nick," said she. "Bring him hither." Muttering and weeping, this small grey-haired man tottered abjectly into the tent.

"Brother," said Wentzelow, leaning upon his long musket, "'tis a sick man he looks, and 'tis sick man 'e be, and yet I wouldn't be in Titus Oldcraft's shoes for a fortun'."

Sir Richard shivered, and, drawing stool to the fire, sat down and crouched in the warmth.

"Ah!" quoth Wentzelow, also approaching the genial fire. "'Tis the death hour—I sme[illegible] the dawn, brother, and there be many a one as lays a-dying at this moment."

"Well, but death, friend Wentzelow, is none so ill if it be quick and sure."

"Mebbe, brother, mebbe, but—I wouldn't be in Titus Oldcraft's shoes—no, not for three fortun's!"

Truffeni's plan may yet bring a happy ending to the romance of Helen and Richard. Continue the story tomorrow.

Vegetables Enjoyed by Epicures of Old Times

The beets of ancient Greece were black and white and the leaves as well as the roots were used. The leaves were generally preferred to lettuce, though lettuce was highly thought of for its cooling effect.

There are accounts of lettuce being served in its natural state at the tables of Persian kings as far back as 500 B. C. The Romans generally cooked it. Roman lettuce was black and its milky juice was said to induce sleep. In Sixteenth century England, where eight varieties were found, it was cooked or served with oil and vinegar.

Only in recent years have mushrooms been anything like abundant on the market, and outside the large cities they are considered a rarity still; yet mushrooms have been available for thousands of years. Said Pliny: "The last device of our epicures to sharpen their appetites and tempt them to eat inordinately is the cooking of mushrooms."

Often they prepared the dish with their own hands to enjoy the odor. The mushroom, however, fell into discredit at the death of Emperor Tiberius Claudius, on account of the aid it had rendered Agrippina, his wife, in poisoning him.

Poor Place for Doctor

Many centuries after the time of the Greeks and the Romans cabbage was still so highly thought of as a health giver that the story was told of a doctor going to settle in Denmark, who, when he saw fields of cabbage everywhere, lost heart, deciding that Denmark would be a poor market for his services. But an English writer of half a century ago recounted with apologies instances of the high regard in which the vegetable had been held. His age, said he, looked on all members of the cabbage family as hard to digest and affording little nourishment.

Duty

An Indiana business man who is cranky about his food distressed his wife by setting his cup of coffee in the platter of butter.

"What do you mean by doing a trick like that?" inquired the wife.

"I am only carrying out an injunction of humanity. It's the duty of the strong to support the weak," replied the aggrieved husband.—Indianapolis Star.

Life Insurance Payments in 1928

A total of $1,957,635,592, in the form of death benefits, matured endowments, dividends and cash values was paid in 1928 to policyholders who paid the premiums or to their beneficiaries, according to the Life Insurance Distribution Number of The National Underwriter, Life Insurance Edition, that states the sum is a gain of $[illegible] over that paid in 1927.

Kingston is included in the list of over 800 cities that received more than $100,000 in life insurance payments, its residents having received $192,000. Amounts paid to residents of nearby communities are as follows: Newburgh, $549,000; Poughkeepsie, $[illegible]; Hudson, $[illegible]; Oneonta, $[illegible]; Beacon, $[illegible]; Middletown, $[illegible]; Saugerties, $37,500; Highland, $[illegible]; Delhi, $[illegible]; Kerhonkson, $16,000.

In the $192,000 paid in Kingston were death benefits for Charles McMillan, J. J. Larkin, C. Rooks and A. K. Steeger. The McMillan benefit was listed in the sum of $5,000 to $[illegible], while the others were in the $3,000 to $5,000 division. On the policy of Samuel Lindenbaum, Kerhonkson, $16,000 was paid.

Oursler Offers Aid to Elverhoj

Fulton Oursler, author of "Behold This Dreamer", in which Glenn Hunter starred in New York, was impressed to a considerable extent by a week-end visit to the Elverhoj Theatre at Milton-on-the-Hudson. Mr. Oursler motored up to the theatre and after seeing a production there made this pertinent inquiry of the management:

"Do you think a check for a thousand dollars would help you start your next season?"

Mr. Oursler was particularly impressed by "The Romantic Young Lady" in which Mme. Ouspenskaya, the Russian star, was featured.

Next week's production will be the comedy, "Tweedles" by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson while "Pomeroy's Past" will be done the week following. Ben Starkie who did much memorable work in "Young Woodley" will play the juvenile lead in "Tweedles".

Elephant's Big "Pull"

The pulling strength of an elephant is equal to that approximately of 12 horses or 8 oxen.

Strenuous Task Faced by Far North Judge

Edmonton, Alberta.—Two Eskimos now being held at Aklavik on criminal charges are to be tried at that Far Northern point this summer before Judge Dubuc, stipendiary magistrate for the Northwest territories. F. C. Darling will be the crown prosecutor and Joseph A. Clarke will be counsel for the accused.

A charge of murder has been lodged against Oochina, an Eskimo, who is alleged to have killed another Eskimo named Ooyak at Bathurst Inlet. Lily Sarniyu will be tried on a charge of infanticide alleged to have been committed at Demarcation Point, in the Yukon territory. Both prisoners are now in the custody of the mounted police at Aklavik.

During an extremely cold spell in the Puget Sound country, something gummed the works of a thermometer hung outside the Chamber of Commerce building and the worst it could do was seventy-two above.

Along came a man, bundled up to his ears, but still shivering. For a moment he gazed at the thermometer then turned away in disgust, saying: Ain't that just like the Chamber of Commerce, anyway?"

An elderly woman who rarely went to the theatre was seated in the front row of the pit endeavoring to see what was going on. A courteous young man, seeing she was shortsighted, drew his binoculars out and said:

A flush came to her cheeks, and she whispered to the young man angrily. "You've been making fun of me. There ain't a blessed drop in the glass.

What is near is always impressive. A cottage two yards away can eclipse the sun. Reason, however, demonstrates that the sun is really larger than the cottage, though considerably further away from ourselves. What reason can do to correct our perception of things in space, it can do equally effectively for our perception of events in time. GAS BUGGIES—The Morning After--

Organize For Legion Convention

Louisville, Ky., (AP).—A corporation to spend money instead of making it has been organized by the Louisville Legionnaires making plans to entertain the 100,000 war veterans expected to attend the annual convention of the American Legion, September 30.

And although Frank D. Rash, president, and Reau Kemp, director, are finding it difficult to get rid of a great deal of it, they claim their goal of $100,000 or more hospitality expenditures will have been reached by the time Legionnaires gather for their annual reunion.

One of the biggest divisions of the convention corporation is charged with providing lodging for the war veterans. This, say its officers, already has been achieved with the cooperation of every Louisville hotel. The hotels have agreed not to raise rates.

The corporation has arranged for the visitors to attend horse races at Churchill Downs, excursions to Mammoth cave, Daniel Boone's grave and many other historical sites; and to see Louisville's river pride called "the greatest collection of river steamboats in modern times."

The convention will open in Jefferson county armory, which has a seating capacity of 10,000. Later sessions will be held in the $1,250,000 memorial auditorium, Louisville's tribute to her service men. For one feature event—the concert of a 1,000 piece band under the direction of Ceasar La Monaca, himself a Legionnaire. The University of Louisville campus will be the setting.

Delivered, Fully Equipped
Nothing More to Buy!

IN STYLE, PERFORMANCE AND PRICE
—the pick of the roadsters!

This new Nash "400" has the style, the finish and the sparkling performance that you customarily expect only from roadsters far beyond its extremely moderate price.

The motor is the new Twin-Ignition type which Nash engineering has developed to add exhilaration and economy to motoring. Twin-Ignition means more power, more speed with less gasoline.

Next year's open car fashion is forecast in the finish of this charming "400." The upholstery is pigskin, with a big disappearing arm rest in the center of the front seat and arm rests on either door. The "400" roadster seats its passengers low, with only head and shoulders visible. Wheels are wire, with big heavy duty spokes, oversize hubs and chromium-nickeled rims.

Family Courts Recommended

Washington, Aug. 2 (AP).—Domestic relations clinics, staffed by psychiatrists, psychologists, and social investigators, are recommended in the findings of the United States children's bureau after a study of family and domestic relations courts of 26 cities in 16 states.

"These domestic relations clinics should be available to any person desiring help in adjusting troubles growing out of the marital relations," the report reads.

"The old courts relied upon the learning of lawyers; the new courts depend more upon psychiatrists and social workers," it says. "Justice in the old courts was based on legal science. In the new courts it is based upon social engineering.

The family court movement is described as an outgrowth of the juvenile court, the result of practical experience which has demonstrated that child welfare and family welfare are inextricably intertwined, and as establishing the need for a new technique in dealing with family problems.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

AN OLD COLLEGE SONG

WHILE the World war was going on objection was made to the singing of Yale's famous song "Bright College Year" to the tune of the "Wacht Am Rhein."

In fact, the class of 1889 went so far as to offer a prize for a new air to be fitted to the old words.

When the matter was brought to the attention of the alumni advisory board, that body suggested that the corporation decline gratefully the offer of "Ninety-nine," and this advice was taken.

It is easy to understand why Yale men should not care to sever such a link with the past. The song would hardly be recognizable if set to new music. Besides it would be difficult to get a satisfactory substitute.

But the real explanation is still more to the point.

Since the Declaration of the Armistice there has been a "Watch on the Rhine" kept by Americans, and American flags have been flying from the castles overlooking the haunts of the Rhine maidens of ancient legends.

So it will be natural to think of the new watch, instead of the first one, whenever Yale men gather together for any sort of celebration.

As a matter of fact the "Wacht Am Rhein" did not become popular in Germany until some time after the close of the Franco-Prussian war. It did not represent the spirit of the armies that had been led by the old king and by Von Moltke.

It was, on the other hand, an expression of the new spirit that was to bring about in 1914 the invasion of Belgium and the fighting which should end in the Argonne Forest and Belleau Wood.

A precedent for retaining the air is also to be found in the case of "America" which is sung to the air of "God Save the King" that fell into unpopularity in America round about the time of the Boston tea party and the pulling down of the statue of George III at Bowling Green in New York.

The late King Edward, always a warm friend of the Republic, was in favor of letting this country have the exclusive use of the air of "My Country 'Tis of Thee." He did not care for the sentiments expressed in at least one of the verses of the national anthem that was always played when he appeared in public.

In fact, it was said that he wished to have Doctor Watts' stirring hymn "O God Our Help in Ages Past" substituted for it on formal occasions.

But, owing to the conservatism of the public, this was never done; perhaps they associated the familiar air so much with the long reign of Victoria that they did not care to change.

Youth Bites Dog's Ear When It Attacks Girl

The girl accidentally trod on a dog's tail and it turned and buried its teeth in her leg. She screamed with pain and tried to kick the dog away without success. Campbell, finding nothing handy with which to beat off the dog, tried to pull it away.

At his wit's end, he stooped over and bit the dog's ear. The animal set up a howl and ran off.

Was Well Repaid For Using Nu-Erb

Indigestion, Backache, Headaches and Nervousness Relieved By Short Treatment Of The Famous Medicine.

"Nu-Erb was worth ten times the price I paid for it and because of the relief it has given me from stomach, kidney and liver troubles I want to recommend it to others," said Mr. Clarence W. Bell, 26 DuBois St., Kingston, N. Y., who is employed by Grothkopp Baking Co., of this city.

"For some time past I have been troubled with indigestion and gas in my stomach. I'd get severe griping pains after my meals and great quantities of gas would form, bloating me and causing me much distress. My kidneys were very weak causing a dull, aching pain across my back and I'd get frequent dizzy spells, severe splitting headaches and at such times, my nerves would be so on edge that I couldn't sleep at night and was irritable and restless through the day.

"I have only used a few bottles of the Nu-Erb, but it has given me wonderful relief from the indigestion, gas and pains in my stomach. It has also relieved the backache, put an end to the dizzy spells and I have not had a headache since starting with the Nu-Erb. My nerves are steady. I sleep fine all night long and feel fine when I awaken in the morning."

Sufferers from all over the country are finding out what wonderful good can be gained by using this harmless herbal remedy. Many claim that it is the only medicine that has reached the root of their ailments. It is a compound of 12 medicinal herbs, roots, leaves and barks. It offers helpful relief from stomach troubles, biliousness, gastritis, indigestion, weak kidneys, sick headaches, backaches, nervousness and rheumatism.

McBride Drug Store, 312 Wall St., is headquarters in Kingston for Nu-Erb. Go see the Nu-Erb man now making his headquarters there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, August 2 (AP) — [illegible]

Offerings in the rough packed in two-thirds crates jobbed out as high as $2.75 and as low as $1.25. Michigan celery brought 75c to $1.

A trifle better feeling prevailed for cucumbers. Arrivals were moderate and the demand fairly good, particularly on attractive quality offerings. The top price obtained on upstate consignments was $2 per bushel. Dills, however, commanded $2.50.

Price changes on state green peas were small. Western receipts declined. The demand was slow. Sales of state bushel baskets were at $1.25-$1.50, very rarely as high as $1.75 and as low as $1. Washington peas in crates of about 50 pounds peddled out at $4.00-$6.

About 1,000 acres of peas for seed purposes are being grown this year in Oregon. This is a new industry and has replaced a portion of the potato acreage in that district. These pea growers are to receive 2½ cents per pound for their product.

Convicts' Auto in Rhode Island

Providence, R. I., August 2 (AP)—Providence police were making an intensive state-wide search early today for a sedan believed used by convicts who escaped from Auburn, N. Y., prison. The car was reported to have been sighted this morning in this city by two police officers. They saw the machine speeding in the direction of Pawtucket. They said the license plate read N. Y. 4X446. The description of the fugitive machine corresponded with that broadcast by New York authorities, police reported.

Classified Ads Used to Promote Fraudulent Home Work Schemes

FRAUDULENT OFFERS OF EMPLOYMENT ABROAD NET SCHEMING PROMOTOR $6,000

There is a [illegible] amount of romantic appeal in the idea of working in foreign countries. This probably accounts for the fact that W. B. Gregory of Detroit, Mich., once wanted to secure a position abroad. He even went so far as to pay money to have his name put on a list along with those of several hundred other people who wanted to do the same thing. But this simple procedure did not procure work for him in foreign lands, and Gregory awoke to the truth of the matter which was that he had paid cash for a valueless "service."

Having been stung himself, Gregory decided to remain in this country and sting others. This he was successful in doing to the tune of about $6,000 a month by operating the same sort of foreign service bureau that had taken his money from him in the first place. A Post Office Department fraud order was finally issued against him which means that in the future all mail addressed to the South American Service Bureau in Detroit will be returned to the original senders marked "Fraudulent: Mail to this address returned by order of Postmaster General."

Gregory used classified advertisements almost exclusively to bring his scheme to the attention of the public. In these he stated that men were wanted in all trades and professions in foreign countries. He mentioned long vacations and free transportation and urged those interested to write for particulars. At the time this case was investigated by the Post Office Department, Gregory was receiving mail at the rate of more than [illegible] pieces a day.

As soon as the request for "particulars" was received, Gregory sent highly colored promotional literature to the prospect in which life abroad was described as a veritable heaven on earth. Printed excerpts from letters praising his service were included together with an "information blank" which was to be filled out by the applicant and which created a feeling of serious intent by containing spaces to be filled in giving the name, age, nationality, capabilities, etc., etc. of the prospect. This blank was to be returned to Gregory with $2 which was to (1) cover the cost of transmitting the applicant's name with others to "100 representative firms in the oil, fruit, mining, packing, railway, rubber, electric, banking, steel industries, etc., etc." and (2) pay for a book which described living conditions abroad.

Gregory pretended to specialize in South American contracts. His book was found by the Post Office Inspector who investigated the case to consist of 40 pages, 11 of which were devoted to a list of names of "American firms with South American connections" and [illegible] pages were devoted to a "list of [illegible] South American companies with the product they deal in." The remaining pages contained general and statistical information regarding South America.

When questioned regarding his scheme Gregory contended that his literature did not promise [illegible] that a position would be procured for any person who sent in the so-called fee. People who were questioned by the Inspector in this case [illegible] stated that [illegible] the impression. Gregory did not show that he had in fact obtained a position for any one of the large number of persons who remitted $2 to him. The liberally quoted letters in his following literature it was disclosed, were written by people who [illegible] stated that a friend of theirs had secured employment in South America through Gregory. No one of them had actually procured such work in that way. Gregory did not contend that he had arrangements with any concern employing persons in South America whereby he could get positions for his remitters.

The Post Office Inspector found that Gregory's "Service" consisted in sending long lists of names and addresses of the persons who had remitted $2 to a number of concerns in the United States at intervals of about [illegible] days. These lists were mimeographed on both sides and were usually single spaced, one line or less being devoted to each person. In many instances they were so poorly printed as to be illegible. The lists were usually accompanied by a letter addressed to the attention of the expert manager.

Gregory had made, the Inspector learned, no arrangements with the firms to which the lists were sent. In a number of cases the concerns had directed him to remove their names from his mailing list. In no instance did any firm to which the lists were sent request Gregory to send further information respecting a candidate.

In the majority of cases, the Inspector learned, these lists were promptly consigned to the wastebasket. Regardless of this Gregory, in some of his letters soliciting the $2 remittance, said that "Each year as we service our clients to American companies, we find a steadily growing demand for our service."

Gregory contended that his scheme was legitimate because of his offer to return the $2 if the applicant was dissatisfied. The Postal Inspector found, however, that the directions as to how a refund might be obtained were printed near the bottom of the "information blank." This blank, it should be remembered, was filled out and returned to Gregory. In this manner information as to how the refund might be obtained was taken out of the applicant's hands.

The foregoing is but one of the many ways in which an attempt is made to victimize classified readers by fraudulent offers of employment. Other large scale schemes which are promoted by classified advertising are discussed in this series of articles. They range from such simple tasks as addressing and mailing circulars to making cash investments for the setting up of bargain, bankrupt, and rummage sale establishments. All propositions of this nature should be closely scrutinized before money is put into them.

To aid newspapers in protecting their readers from fraudulent advertisements, the National Better Business Bureau, New York, N. Y., maintains a special section to investigate classified advertising. Individual schemers are reported on by the Bureau and newspapers are given basic facts about typical schemes which make it possible for responsible publications to censor submitted classified copy.

Land on that "knock" with a knock-out gasoline! Don't let high-compression and carbon knocks steal your power, defraud your motor of its rightful speed, or pilfer away its silence and smoothness.

Fill up with TYDOL ETHYL—Zero Knock Rating Gasoline and watch your car show you something new in action on the hills, silence in every cylinder, and speed on the straightaway.

TYDOL ETHYL turns destructive hammer-blow explosions into long, strong impulses of power . . . silky, smooth, dynamic. These 3 cent premium gasolines were tested on the Midgley (Bouncing Pin) Indicator according to an established standard scale over a period of 6 months, from Nov., 1928, to May, 1929, with the following results:

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Smart Frock With or Without Long Sleeves.

6521. Pique one of the newest of the season's [illegible] materials was used for this design. The plaited frill is of organdy. This charming frock may be finished with short sleeve extensions as pictured in the large view, or with wrist length sleeve portions that puff gracefully above a band cuff. A group of tucks lend fullness to the front at the shoulders. The [illegible] and plaited skirt portion is most popular and distinctive, and very attractive is the line of scallops at the closing of the frock. Printed georgette [illegible] flowered ginghams or handkerchief linen are also suggested for the development of this frock.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. To make a 38 inch size will require [illegible] yards of 39 inch material if made as pictured in the large view. If made with long sleeves [illegible] yards will be required. To trim with frill or plaiting at the scalloped edge will require 1 yard. To finish with bias tape at the scalloped edge and at neck and sleeve edge will require 3 yards [illegible] inch wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge with the plaits extended is [illegible] yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

FASHION ANTICIPATES A GOLD RUSH THIS FALL

New York.—The "sun-back" refuses to set with the sun, but steps out under the moonlight or electric with perfect confidence in being the most correct decolletage. Evening gowns are nothing if not low as viewed from the back although they are discretion itself otherwise. Among the newer models are those with a flower or two placed at the waistline for it is about at this point that the "V" terminates. There is a tendency to soften the line and this is done in diverse interesting ways among which may be mentioned the turned back or revere edge, and the cape or frill.

The question of where to place the waistline is largely a matter for individual decision although the preference is for the normal line. The unflattering effect of this may be somewhat offset by the placement of the fullness at a low line. Designers still seem inclined to focus their attention below the waistline for skirts continue to be somewhat spectacular while bodices from above the peplum occasionally remain pleasantly simple.

Yellow has gained prestige this summer and promises to be repeated in the guise of gold for fall. If the program is carried out as scheduled, gold laces and gold cloth will be much in use not only for evening gowns but for the jaunty coats which will be worn with them. Evening slippers which at the moment are preferred in opera pump lines and of satin, are being trimmed with gold in anticipation of the coming gold rush.

Cops, Foes of Progress, Arrest Near-Inventor

Boston, Mass.—America's motorists might be driving fuelless automobiles if the police hadn't stepped in and arrested Alonzo R. Brennan, thirty-three, right at the peak of his career as an inventor.

When Brennan announced that he had perfected a working model of a motor car operated by springs without the use of gasoline, a local policeman resigned and a restauranteur sold his eating establishment to go into business with the "genius."

They were among the complainants who had Brennan arrested on a charge of larceny in connection with money invested in his rather visionary undertaking. It seems that the fuelless automobile he had in mind had not been quite perfected.

Emeralds in Old Egypt

The emerald seems to have been the favorite stone of ancient Egypt. Old emerald mines have been discovered so extensive that hundreds of men must have worked in them at a time, much as they work in the diamond mines of South Africa today. Many rings of Cleopatra's time are set with emeralds deeply cut with her portrait. These she is said to have bestowed on foreign ambassadors as a mark of her favor.

PHONING EUROPE FAD OF SOCIETY

Forty Per Cent of Individual Calls During 1928 Were Social Calls.

New York.—Telephoning to Europe by wireless is becoming a social fad in America as well as an important aid to business, according to Theodore G. Miller, general manager of the long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Forty per cent of 7,500 individual calls during 1928 were social calls, with messages from bankers, brokers and business men ranking just above, he declares in an interview in the American Magazine.

Growth of international telephoning has been tremendous, Miller adds, the number of calls to London, Paris, Berlin, Madrid, Vienna and other cities in Europe and South America having grown from 2,900 in 1927 to more than 7,500 in the past year. Potentially, all of the 19,000,000 telephones in the cities, towns and isolated farms in the United States are linked with those of the eastern world, giving a total of 28,000,000 instruments hooked up in one great circuit. International telephones were first presented to the public in January, 1927, and by the end of the year 2,900 persons had availed themselves of the new method of communication. In 1928 more than 7,500 individual calls were handled. The longest distance call was from San Diego, Calif., to Stockholm, Sweden, a span of 8,050 miles.

Marvels of Wireless.

Using the San Diego-Stockholm call as an example of the marvels of wireless telephoning, Miller pointed out that if it were possible to talk loud [illegible] San Diego it [illegible] for the [illegible] waves of the voice to [illegible] after the [illegible] [illegible] however, [illegible] at the rate of [illegible] [illegible] the journey.

In discussing the social use of the international telephone, Miller told of the celebration by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alfred May of Pittsburgh, of their silver wedding anniversary. They took 64 from Pittsburgh to Paris for the affair and at the close of their dinner, the guests were invited to call up their friends back home at the host's expense. Another man, from Illinois, was in Paris on business and lost the shopping list his wife had given him and he called her at home to renew the list. Newspapers have frequently used the transatlantic phone to verify reports of engagements of noted people. Editors have found that persons who would not consent to an interview by reporters on the spot are so impressed by being called over the international telephone that they answer all questions fully. Miller also recalled how the German correspondent, Wilhelm Schultz of Vossiche Zeitung, stood at a telephone under a soft drink stand at Lakehurst, N. J., on the occasion of the arrival of the Graf Zeppelin, and dictated a story which was taken down by a stenographer in the Berlin office of the paper.

Plays Market by Phone.

Miller also recalled a visit of W. C. Durant, the automobile magnate, to London several months ago. He was confined to his hotel by a slight illness but was keenly interested in the New York market. When the waiter arrived with his breakfast he asked him to call New York and give an order for the purchase of 5,000 shares of General Motors. The waiter in a high state of agitation, placed the order and started gathering up the [illegible] said Durant [illegible] them again and tell them to buy [illegible] more" and before the waiter could hang up the receiver, Durant ordered [illegible] more shares. Thus a [illegible] waiter, with a telephone in his [illegible] and [illegible] spent [illegible] over the phone with a man 3,000 miles away.

Durant's transatlantic telephone call to London was [illegible] and his calls at times were of an hour's duration.

10,000 Small Pieces in a Wooden Table

Detroit.—A table constructed of 10,000 small pieces of wood gathered from all parts of the world, was displayed here during the recent convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War. The unique table was the work of George L. Hathaway of Dayton, Ohio.

Famous Building

The Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City is 250 feet long by 150 feet wide and 80 feet high, and seats from 6,000 to 8,000 people. Its self-supporting roof rests on pillars or buttresses of red sandstone, which are from ten to twelve feet apart in the entire circumference of the building. No nails were used in making the roof, the timbers being tied in places with cowhide and held together with wooden pegs. It was begun in 1863. In its shape the Mormon tabernacle is a perfect ellipse.

No Wonder It's Costly

To obtain the single gram of radium which the women of America gave to Madame Curie when she visited this country in 1921 required the working of 600 tons of ore and the labor of 500 men for six months. During the process of extraction there were consumed 10,000 tons of distilled water, 1,000 tons of coal and 500 tons of chemicals.—Gas Logic.

Your Existing Range Boiler + A Cover of High Insulating Value + A REX PATROL Gas Water Heater = An Automatic Hot Water Storage System of Exceptional Merit

Inasmuch as the REX PATROL Gas Water Heater can be connected to your existing range boiler, the installation time and cost is practically negligible. These economies are reflected in the exceptionally low price of $49.50, a feature which has contributed, in a large measure, to the popularity of this appliance. Of course, if hot water is stored for any length of time, heat will be lost through the walls of the tank. To minimize this loss the REX PATROL installation includes an insulating cover which is simply laced around the range boiler.

It will be to your advantage to call our nearest office today and ask for complete information concerning this modern household necessity.

OLD GLAMOURS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WOMEN are always polishing old things,
To bring them back their brightness queer old ware,
Chipped here and there
With many wanderings,
And dulled with many a year of use and care,
Women are always polishing, to see
The beauty where
Such beauty used to be.

Women are always laboring, their arms
Bearing the burden of some ancient plate,
To recreate
Its fine, old-fashion charms,
Restore the past, before it grows too late.
Women are always laboring with dust,
And even fate;
It seems that women must.

Women are always polishing, it seems,
Seeking to bring old glamours back to life,
Even the wife
Still bridal in her dreams.
When men surrender to the stress and strife,
Women are always polishing—perchance
A plate, a knife,
Perhaps an old romance.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

BUZZING FLIES

THERE is a very general superstition—in fact it is world-wide—that a large fly buzzing persistently about one, or preceding one as he walks, is a sign of bad luck. It is said that the late Russell Sage would not do business with a man who came into his office with a fly buzzing in front of him.

This appears to be a survival of an old idea of primitive man that flies were embodiments of the souls of the dead, and of wicked souls at that. Even today among the natives of Assam a fly, which is peculiarly demonstrative, is supposed to be the soul of some dead malefactor who, having spent his allotted time in the underworld, has been reincarnated in that form preparatory to final extinction. At Wuhlbach in Transylvania in the Eighteenth century it was testified at the trial of a witch that some workmen saw the woman's soul, which had temporarily left her, re-enter her mouth in the form of a fly.

In classic times the fly was regarded as an especially malignant and bad-luck-bringing creature; and one of the titles of Zeus, the Grecian Jupiter, was the Fly-Catcher—one of his jobs was to exert his power as chief of the gods against the fly. Once when Zeus was sleeping, or too surfeited with nectar and ambrosia to heed the prayers of his votaries, Apollonius of Tyana, a great magician, cleared Constantinople of flies by working a counter magic on them. He set up a great bronze fly and the other flies, alarmed by this prodigy, left the city.

Throws Away His Gun

A Massachusetts trapper sometimes finds a gun superfluous. Recently he brought in two fox skins, one slain by a wildcat and one a victim of starvation.

Octagonal Currency

In the California gold rush days, the standard of value was the "octagonal," a gold piece worth $50 that took its name from its shape. For many years octagonal $1 gold pieces were coined for use in the West.

Mother's Cook Book

"Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As everyone of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about
When he might have won had he stuck it out;
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow,
You may succeed with another blow."

THE POPULAR CANDY

IN THESE days with the value of pure candy so much appreciated and used by mothers of children, the homemade kinds are doubly popular.

Sea Foam.

Take two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of corn sirup, one-fourth cupful of water, two egg whites, one cupful of chopped nuts and flavoring to taste. Boil to a soft ball stage the sugar, sirup and water. Beat the egg whites and pour over the hot sirup, beating until stiff; stir in the nuts and drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet.

Peanut Candy.

Shell and roll with a rolling pin one quart of peanuts. To two pounds of brown sugar add six ounces (twelve level tablespoonfuls) of butter. Stir over a low fire at first, then when boiling cook stirring constantly ten minutes; add the nuts just before taking out of the pan. Pour into a well-buttered pan and when cool mark off into squares.

Turkish Delight.

Soak five tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-half cupful of cold water for ten minutes. Mix one-third of a cupful of orange juice, one teaspoonful of grated orange rind. Bring two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of water, and the softened gelatin to a boil, and boil 20 minutes. Remove from the heat, add the fruit juices and rind. Strain into a shallow pan which has been rinsed with cold water. When cool turn out and cut into squares. Roll in powdered sugar.

Molasses Candy.

Take two cupfuls of molasses, one cupful of butter and three cupfuls of sugar; boil until it makes a hard ball in water. Add flavoring and pour into greased pans to cool. Pull and cut into squares and wrap in oiled paper. Melt the butter, add the molasses, then when well heated add the sugar.

HIGH DEGREE OF SAFETY ACHIEVED IN AVIATION

Army Flyers Now Average 17½ Years in Air for Each Fatal Crash, Survey Shows.

New York.—How safe is airplane travel today?

The first comprehensive answer to this question, which is concerning more and more Americans each year, is provided by Herbert Brucker, writer and aviation enthusiast, in a survey of current aerial activities in America which is published in The Review of Reviews.

By computing the number of miles flown within the latest recorded period and the number of fatal accidents in four classes of flying—army, navy, air mail and civilian flying clubs—Mr. Brucker finds flying has achieved an incredibly high degree of safety.

The average naval aviator today can fly for 19 years before meeting a fatal accident, he calculates. The army flyer can record 17½ years without a fatal crash; the air mail service recorded but one death in 2,583,000 miles flown in 1928, which would mean but one death in 129 years of flying; the civilian club flyer, including the dangerous period of student flying, had an average record indicating 13¼ years aloft without a fatal accident.

All of these classes of flyers face dangers not encountered by the occasional air passenger, Mr. Brucker points out.

"Among naval flyers there were 13,728,000 miles flown and 28 killed," he shows. The record last year was 392,000 miles flown for each death. On the basis of the difficult flying done last year by naval aviators, that would mean that a man could fly 19 years, even if he were a frequent flyer, before he would be killed.

"This general conclusion is borne out by the army's experience. Army flying has almost tripled in seven years, and the number of fatalities has shrunk to one-third. Last year there was approximately a death to every 551,700 miles flown, indicating that an average man could fly on military tasks and in intricate maneuvers some 17½ years before having a fatal crash."

The air mail service for a single year shows but one death for 2,583,000 miles of flight, his Review of Reviews article shows. Estimating that the professional mail pilot covers 20,000 miles a year, he shows that this record means but one death in 129 years.

For civilian sport flying, Mr. Brucker takes the figures of the Canadian Light Airplane clubs, many of whose members were student flyers and, consequently, liable to more accidents. But at the end of a year the organization had recorded 812,400 miles flown with but three fatal crashes.

High Lake Water Makes River Flow Backwards

Manistee, Mich.—"Til the river flows backwards" has usually been considered quite a long time, and has furnished a comparison by which sweethearts were wont to declare the duration of their love.

But in Manistee this would scarcely be wise, for the Manistee river, defying all natural law, recently took a spell of about a half an hour in which it flowed backwards. The phenomenon was first noticed by Joe Wicinski, local bridge tender, whose story is supported by several bystanders.

Boxes, dead-heads, bits of rubbish floating downstream, stopped, turned about, and floated upstream under the current estimated at about five miles per hour. The extreme height of Lake Michigan was believed responsible for the phenomenon.

Plan Floating Homes for Soviet Children

Moscow.—A number of "floating homes" for the homeless children are being planned as part of the effort to turn these vagrants into useful citizens.

It is proposed to use old ships on the Black and Caspian seas and on the Russian river highways for this purpose.

One of the chief problems in dealing with the homeless youngsters has been that many of them run away from schools and colonies where they are placed. The ships, it is argued, will satisfy the roving disposition of such children. At the same time they can be brought up as expert sailors for the great mercantile fleet which Soviet Russia hopes to possess by the time they grow up.

Fresh Daily Bouquet for Hawaii Capitol

Honolulu.—Every day in the year, except Sundays, Jose Cuareama, a territorial prisoner, gathers from the old palace grounds 600 blossoms of hibiscus. These he fashions into a huge bouquet which is placed in the capitol to delight visitors. Jose begins his work at 6:00 a. m., when the hibiscus are first opening, and he completes it by 10:00 a. m.

Quit? Not Him

Lynn, Mass.—"I don't intend to get out, and no power on earth can make me. This old age stuff will have no effect on me." Thus did Police Chief Thomas M. Burckes, who is in his eighty-fourth year and who has been a policeman for nearly half a century, recently answer persistent rumors that he is about to resign.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 2 (AP).—Bullish speculative sentiment was reclaimed with considerable vigor in today's stock market with major speculative interest shifting from the public utility to the railroad shares. More than a score of issues were pushed into new high ground, many of the gains running from 2 to 15 points.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent but the banks appeared to be in a more comfortable position, and a lower rate was expected. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady, with business light.

While many traders expected a decrease in federal reserve brokers' loans because of the heavy liquidation a week ago, the increase of $45,000,000 to a new high record apparently caused little concern, due to the rather general feeling that the loan total will be much higher before any major reaction develops.

Weekly mercantile reviews indicated little change in the general business situation, while the publication of another series of earnings statements testified to the widespread prosperity of the first half year. A further improvement was noted in the demand for copper, and the introduction of new lines is reported to have stimulated the demand for automobiles.

The brisk demand for the rails was influenced by the unusually favorable earnings and traffic statements now being published, and a rather widespread speculative belief that they were behind the general market. Atchison quickly made up its early 2-point low and moved ahead 5½ points to a new record at 261½. New Haven also moved into new high ground. New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio and Lackawanna were pushed up 5 points or more and Missouri Pacific, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Erie advanced 3 to 4 points by early afternoon.

General Electric continued its sensational advance by soaring 11 points to a new high at 393, which contrasts with the year's low of 219. Detroit Edison ran up 14½ points to 385, People's Gas 12¾ points to 400, and Philadelphia Company 8 points to 228, all new high records. American and Foreign Power, North American Company, Consolidated Gas and General Public Service also broke through to new peak prices.

SENATE COMMITTEE FAVORS SLIDING SCALE FOR SUGAR

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP).—A sliding scale sugar tariff plan, ranging from one cent a pound when market prices are high to three cents a pound when the market is depressed, was made public today by Chairman Smoot of the Senate Finance Committee.

Smoot will offer the proposal as a substitute for the flat rate of three cents a pound placed on sugar in the House Tariff Bill.

Hearings will be held next week, when the substitute will be considered by the committee.

Under the sliding scale, the present rate of 2.20 on sugar would apply when sugar is selling in New York at 6 cents a pound, which is about the present price.

Cuba would receive the same 20 per cent preferential under the sliding scale as it now enjoys when the flat rates on sugar are applied.

Shandaken Show A Big Success

The big benefit minstrel staged at the Shandaken Community Hall Thursday night for the benefit of the Methodist parishes of Allaben, Pataclinta and Pine Hill proved one of the most successful events of the kind ever held at Shandaken. A fine program, arranged by Harry Linton, of the Linton Studio of Dancing of this city, was enjoyed by people who came from many miles around. Maisenbelder's Commanders furnished music for the show and a dance that followed.

Mr. Linton picked most of his talent from Kingston performers, who were augmented by several professionals vacationing in Shandaken. Harry Linton, Bill Frederick, who has a bungalow colony at Phoenicia, and Prince Harvey, colored radio entertainer, were among those who played with the Kingston people. The Rev. J. J. Callahan, of St. Francis de Sales Church, Phoenicia, who took the stage to thank those that made the show a success, had to respond to an urgent request for a solo.

Kingston soloists were Chester Fox, Thomas Daley, Edward Noonan, Robert Cullum, Cliff Moore and Henry Peskie. Joseph Mitchell did a pleasing recitation and dance. Frank Oulton and Zeke Boice, two of Kingston's best blackface comedians, as premier ends, led the following in furnishing the evening's fun: John Fisher, George Reis, Ed Burnes and John Doolin.

Specialty numbers, featuring local people, went over big. Dick Bernard with his baton, made a hit with the audience, while his two daughters, Muriel and Marion, vied with their father in musical and dance numbers, respectively. "Mickey" McGlynn, Mazie McMahon and Helena Snow, graduates of the Linton Studio of Dancing, delighted the patrons with their several routines.

Following the show and dance held at the Shandaken Hall, the minstrel cast and Maisenbelder's Commanders were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Linton at their Log Lodge in Shandaken. A most enjoyable time was furnished by the hosts, who were declared royal entertainers by the guests at the cozy Log Lodge.

Among the prominent people of the Shandaken locality who attended the show were Mrs. Kessler and laughter, Jane; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clearwater; Mrs. Charles Quimby of Union Hill; Mrs. Grace Fogarty, widow of Frank Fogarty, celebrated monologist; Mr. and Mrs. William McGrath of Phoenicia; Mr. and Mrs. George Schwarztwaelder; Mrs. E. T and Mrs. L. Linton; Lillian Hasel; Mrs. Morton Hasel; a guest of Effie Laurence, who has a summer home at Shandaken; Miss L. Garrity, formerly of Shandaken; Mrs. Blanche Kuren; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stiles; Mrs. Pearsal and daughter; Mrs. Felix Hughes; Conrad Gross and Mrs. George Van Keuren.

Tetley-Boehne.

An atmosphere of charm and beauty enhanced the pretty wedding solemnized last night, says the Galveston, Texas, News of Saturday, July 20, at 7 o'clock at First Methodist Church in which Miss Marguerite Boehne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Boehne, became the bride of James Wilbur Tetley of Kingston, N. Y. Rev. Guy F. Jones performed the ceremony.

The church was exceptionally beautiful in its effective decoration, the altar and aisles being banked in smilax. Tall baskets held pink gladioli against a background of potted plants.

Prior to the ceremony Patrick H. Wilson, Jr., sang "For You" (Montague) and "Spirit of God." He was accompanied by Mrs. Arthur S. E. Catterall, who also played processional and recessional.

The attendants wore charming midsummer frocks, fashioned in a similar mode, of pastel-hued chiffon, with basque bodices and long ruffled skirts. Their large picture hats were of hairbraid in the same hue as their frocks and their arm clusters of pink rosebuds were tied with matching tulle.

Miss Eugenia Trask, bridesmaid, who entered first, was in delicate peach; Miss Shelby Zempter, bridesmaid, was in soft green and Mrs. Clarence Gilmore, matron of honor, in dainty orchid.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her blonde loveliness was accentuated by her bridal costume of white chiffon and delicate dotted net, made with a close-fitting bodice and very full skirt, the net forming a cape collar. Her illusion veil, which was scattered along its length with clusters of orange blossoms, was caught at the back of her head in a high coronet effect and held with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Howard S. Kennedy of Troy, N. Y., was best man and Wheelock Boehne and Robert D. Wilson served as groomsmen. Men of the bridal party wore white suits.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The home was beautifully decorated for the event with a profusion of blossoms. Especially lovely was the adornment of the bride's table, with its handsomely iced wedding cake.

Auburn Convicts Rob Campers

Auburn, N. Y., Aug. 2 (AP).—The four convicts who escaped from the state prison here after Sunday's uprising were still at large today, although two of them have been partially identified by campers who said they were held up and robbed of their clothing late Sunday night.

John Schmidt and Edward Pfugher, two campers, told police today they were held up by two men who forced them to undress at the point of guns. They then were ordered to stay in the woods near their camps under penalty of death should they attempt to notify authorities.

Garbed in their stolen clothing, the two men, believed to have been Joseph Caprico and George Small, resumed their flight after abandoning the automobile they stole in Auburn immediately after the outbreak.

Schmidt and Pfugher said they dared not leave their camps because they feared the escaped inmates were still in the vicinity. They told their story when police arrived at North Rose, where the machine had been abandoned.

Shown pictures of all four convicts both men identified the pair as Small and Caprico. Each was armed, they said, and one was carrying a Thompson machine gun.

The campers' story confirmed the theory that one missing machine gun was held by a convict but shattered another that Small probably had chosen to accompany Arthur Bar..., New York inmate. Prison officials said today it now appears that Steven Pawlik and Barry had paired off, while Small and Caprico joined forces.

Prison officials said they felt certain that Caprico was one of the men, as a portion of an envelope bearing his first name was found in the machine, carrying a "message of thanks."

Troopers were sent to the North Rose vicinity to search the woods but it was thought the men were miles away by this time, perhaps farther up in New York state and possibly in Canada.

The prison was quiet again today and the routine of the past four days was being carried on.

Miss Buscher and her party were returning to Cleveland after an automobile tour and were driving toward Rochester when the accident occurred. Miss Buscher received a broken neck.

Witchie was driving an automobile owned by Miss Ethel Keenen of Sacketts Harbor and police said he did not have a license.

He is not a member of the Operators' Union and said he believed he had been kidnapped because of this.

Prince Greets Boy Scouts

Arrowe Park, Eng., August 2 (AP).—The Prince of Wales, representing King George at the great world Boy Scout Jamboree, today shook hands with American boyhood and fraternized with the youth of all nations in a tour of this great tent city of 50,000 youngsters.

The Prince's call on the American camp came at the end of a tour which began shortly after breakfast.

The American boys all looked dry in spite of a long and ineffectual wait in the rain for the Prince last night and all but a very few of the 1,300 boys were waiting for him this time with cameras. The neatly-uniformed Americans, lined up to receive the Prince, looked for all the world like a regiment of three-eyed soldiers—two eyes in their heads and one in their cameras. Many even had small movie cameras.

The Americans had the time of their lives when the Prince visited their camp and put up a great show for him. The Prince met Grandon McInerney, 13-year-old Rochester boy, who is regarded by his companions as a golfing genius. The Prince told Brandon he had heard of him from Walter Hagen, who had prophesied a great golfing career for him.

"You have a long way to go before you beat Hagen, but always remember this, keep your eye on the ball and keep your head still," said the heir to the British throne as he shook hands with the youth.

Manhattans Bow To Schilks, 6 to 3

The K. & M.-Schillings broke into the win column for the first time during the second round of the Industrial League Tournament when they trounced the Manhattans 6-3, behind the good pitching of Pete Komosa, at the Athletic Field.

Komosa permitted but four hits scattered through different innings. While Komosa was holding the Manhattans in check his teammates pounded the offerings of Ed Stauble for ten safe blows, four going for extra bases.

The Schilks started the scoring in the second inning, pushing two runs across the rubber in this inning. Hits by Connelly, Tierney and Williams accounted for the runs.

A double by L. Stauble after Dawkins was given a walk, gave the Manhattans a run in the third. Hits by Banyo, Didzik and Pete Komosa netted the Schilks two runs in their half of the third.

The Manhattans scored one again in the sixth and seventh, while the Schilks registered another pair of runs in the sixth.

RONDOUTS MEET HERCULES SUNDAY AT FAIR GROUNDS

The Rondout A. C. and the Hercules team of the Industrial League will clash at the Kingston Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon. The fans, who went to the Fair Grounds last week to see the Rondouts play Newburgh were disappointed because the Hilly City team was unable to get here on account of an accident. As the Hercules is a local team Sunday's game is practically assured. Coughlin or Peters will toss them over for the Rondouts, while Best or Becker will do the hurling for the Powder squad.

Tagging Major League Bases

By HERBERT W. BARKER.
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Those among baseball fans who insist that pitching is a lost art and that the lively ball has destroyed the defensive features of the game ought do well to consider the battle between the Cubs and the Boston Braves at Wrigley Field, Chicago, yesterday.

Nine innings of brilliant pitching by Guy Bush on the one hand and Ben Cantwell and Ed Lafferette on the other saw the Cubs win out a 1-0 decision that enabled them to retain their five-game lead in the National League pennant race.

Bush allowed only five hits in turning in his ninth straight victory and his 15th of the season against one defeat. Cantwell gave up but three safeties in the seven innings he worked and Lafferette held the Cubs hitless the rest of the way.

As it turned out the Cubs won on one hit. In the first inning, English doubled and Cantwell, losing control, walked three men in a row to force the only run of the game.

Jess Petty pitched his first full game of the year at Forbes Field and the Pittsburgh Pirates came out of a bad slump to down the Phillies, 3 to 1. Petty allowed only six hits and never was in danger after Comorosky tripled with the bases filled in the third inning to give the Pirates a lead.

Larry Benton pitched the New York Giants to another triumph over Cincinnati, 6-1. Adolf Luque was the victim of bunched hits in the third inning when the Giants tallied four times.

The St. Louis Cardinals got to Johnny Morrison for four runs in the first inning and Old Pete Alexander was able to coast to a 5-2 decision over the Brooklyn Robins.

In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics increased their lead to ten and one-half games by turning back Detroit, 7-4, while the New York Yankees were losing to Chicago, 3-8.

After blanking the Tigers for five innings George Earnshaw weakened in the sixth and three walks and a hit gave the Tigers four runs and evened the count. The league leaders regained the lead with a two-run rally in the same inning and Shores held the Tigers scoreless the rest of the way.

Ted Lyons held the Yanks to six hits as the Sox beat the Yanks. Both Yankee scores were home runs, the first by Earle Combs and the second by Babe Ruth. The Babe's was his 25th of the year. Otherwise Lyons was complete master of the situation. The Sox won the game in the eighth on Cissell's single and a rousing triple by Art Shires.

Cleveland downed the Boston Red Sox, 10-3, behind effective pitching by Jimmy Zinn. John Hodapp got a double and two singles to lead the Indians' drive against Ruffing, Carroll and Dobens.

Held to one run for six innings, the Washington Senators slugged Collins and other St. Louis Browns' pitchers for five in the seventh and seven more in the eighth to win, 13-9.

KANDY KIDS AND BLUE SOX CROSS BATS SUNDAY

At Hasbrouck Park Sunday afternoon the Koenig Kandy Kids and the Blue Sox will meet again. This contest will be a bitter struggle as all the rest have been. Both managers praise their teams very highly. In past games the Kandy Kids have come out on top but once more the Sox are in hopes of turning the tide.

Generals Play Sunday.

The Generals of Lake Katrine will play at Woodstock on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Pan-Ams Battle Promises Action

The Pan-Am ball park will be the scene of a good game Sunday afternoon when the Pan-Ams meet the Jewish Center team from Poughkeepsie. Like the Pan-Ams the Center team has a good record. The latter squad is going strong in the Poughkeepsie Twilight League. They are now in second place and have good prospects of finishing at the top, to take all honors.

The Center team has some young stock making up their infield. Abramsky, who played second base with the Poughkeepsie High School team, is holding down the same job with the Jewish squad. The young ball player is not alone an excellent infielder but he excels with the bat. He hits regularly for singles and often home runs are bounced off his bat.

Indicate Oil Deposits

The geological survey says that an anticline is an upfold in rocks, and such a fold in deposits that are buried beneath formations of more recent geologic age that were not subjected to the folding cannot be detected at the surface. Such upfolds, called "anticlines," are regarded as favorable to the accumulation of oil, and it is for this reason that oil prospectors endeavor to locate such structures.

Stage Set for Fair Grounds Bouts Tonight

The stage is set for the Fair Grounds bouts tonight, when Bill Freeman, heavyweight champion of the New York National Guard, and Georgie Neron, a favorite of New York fans, tussle in the feature attraction scheduled for 10 rounds.

Freeman has the reputation of finishing early and will try to stick to his usual method tonight. Neron is one of the biggest men Freeman ever faced. He is strong and can weather a bitter attack, so the colored champion has a real tough assignment for tonight.

Then, too, Big Bill will have to be extraordinarily cautious for Neron can hit with plenty of steam. He has taken a toll of some very good men during his career and contemplates on putting one over tonight that will send Freeman to the canvas for the count.

The main go is not the only bout on the card that promises a knockout finish. Harry Matinsky, matched with Nick Zinna of this city in the semi-final, is aching to overwhelmingly defeat the so-called lightweight champion of the Hudson valley. Matinsky kayoed Vince Hart of this city at the last Fair Grounds show and will try the same trick on Zinna.

Zinna is in the best of shape and has no intention of letting Matinsky sneak one of his sleep producers over on him. Hick, known to Kingston fans as an accomplished boxer, likely will resort to this means of fighting tonight, although his improved hitting power may tempt him to get right into the contest, hammer and tongs, for a knockout verdict.

The only other Kingston boy on the card besides Zinna is Joie Carpino, who exchanges wallops with Johnny Vasta of New York in a four rounder. It takes a good boy to fight on even terms with Carpino, who says that he will give the fans plenty of action tonight.

Thirty-six rounds in all make up tonight's Fair Grounds show, scheduled to start at 8:15 o'clock. The full program is given in an advertisement on this page.

Mohawk Giants Here Saturday Instead of Brooklyn Royals

The Mohawk Giants, one of the best teams on the list of Albany booking manager, George Kaiser, who handles the business of several top-notch baseball clubs, will clash with the Kingston Industrials, Saturday afternoon at the Athletic Field, instead of the Brooklyn Royal Giants.

In replacing the Royals by the Giants, both Kaiser and Manager John McCardle of the Industrials feel that they are furnishing the Kingston boys with the strongest opposition possible. The Mohawk Giants team like the Brooklyn Royals is a colored aggregation and has a very good record. In fact it is expected that the Mohawk boys will furnish Kingston's so-called best baseball talent with greater opposition than the first club booked.

The Mohawks, who played here under the banner of Chappie Johnson and later Buck Ewing, two of the best colored baseball managers known to Kingston fans, handed a trimming to Freddie Wetmore's Colonials on Decoration Day. Most of the players seen in action against the Colonials are expected to face the Industrials Saturday afternoon.

If the colored boys line up the same as they did Decoration Day the berths on the Mohawk team will be filled as follows: Burbage, Warmack and Kemp in the outfield; Jones, first; Ridgely, second; Smith, third and Poles, short. Their pitcher will be chosen from Jackson, Craig, Wise, with Latimore behind the bat. The up-state squad has dropped two or three games this season in most of their contests have been on strange diamonds.

The Industrials are expected to line up as follows: Hoffman, cf.; Fay, 2b.; Glaser, 3b.; Sickler, ss.; Lay, Cragan or Culloton, 1b. Knight, Schwab, rf.; Smedes, c.; Volker, Culloton, p.

Four o'clock is the scheduled starting time.

CANZONERI TRIES FOR MANDELL'S TITLE TONIGHT

Chicago, Aug. 2 (AP).—Tony Canzoneri, chesty little bootblack of New Orleans, tonight makes a bid for the world's lightweight crown, held by Sammy Mandell.

The two will battle 10 rounds for decision for the title in the Chicago Stadium.

It is to be a skirmish between clever boxer and a rugged, two-fisted puncher and Mandell, the boxer, is the overwhelming favorite. The champion expects to win handily by a decision; the challenger is confident victory by a knockout.

House of David Nine Tries For Junior Title

Benton Harbor's House of David team (above) is among the 20,000 outfits playing for the junior world's championship of baseball. The American Legion, with financial help from the big leagues, is sponsoring the project.

Indianapolis (AP).—An army of about a half-million youngsters—a cross section of America's melting pot—are in the midst of a battle, the culmination of which will mean the crowning of the junior world's champions.

In every state and the District of Columbia and from every creed and nationality 20,000 teams have been formed to go forth in quest of the world's title—a title made possible by the American Legion, backed by the finances of the major leagues.

Already a large percentage of the aspiring nines have fallen by the wayside but still the warfare goes on with the regional tournaments scheduled for 12 cities during the early weeks of August. Then follows the surviving round for the six regional winners east of the Mississippi river at Washington, D. C., August 20, 21 and 22 and the final elimination tournament at Colorado Springs for the Western Sextet of winners August 28, 29, 30.

The two sectional winners will then come together at Louisville, Ky., September 4, 5 and 6, for the title for a free trip to the big world's series as the guests of the National and American Leagues.

Following the footsteps of their better known ancestors, the House of David's junior team from Benton Harbor, with long hair and everything, is entering the regional tournament at Ft. Wayne, Ind., as Michigan state champions. For years the House of David has put an adult nine in the field that has toured the country from coast to coast.

From a mite of an organization in 1926, the American Legion baseball program has grown in spectacular style in three years under the direction of Dan Sowers. In 1926 the first tournament was attempted by the veterans of the World War on a small scale, Yonkers, N. Y., winning the title. The year following it was discontinued because of the Legion convention in Paris.

But last year is received its first big boost when the major leagues voted $50,000 to back the program. Almost nine thousand teams started play for the championship, won by Oakland, Cal., in the finals at Chicago.

Real Brain Capacity Not Matter of Weight

Brain capacity does not increase with the ages, as far, at least, as historic periods go. Sir Arthur Keith, conservator of the museum of the Royal College of Surgeons, was examining a skeleton which had been found in digging the foundations of a house at Putney, Surrey, and he said:

"This man was a Roman, a real Roman. His skull is quite different from the Roman-British skulls of 1,900 years ago. It is a splendid head, and just beside it we found the skull of a child that must, in my opinion, have been the image of its father."

He measured it lovingly with a pair of calipers, and made a lightning mental calculation:

"He had more brain capacity than I have. But what I would really like to know is, what did he do with it?"

The skeleton is to be sent to the Croydon museum.—E. R. Campbell, in the Vancouver Province.

King Might Have Had "To Tell It to Judge"

An amusing story about King Edward is told by Princess Daisy of Pless in her memoirs, says the Kansas City Times. One summer at Cowes, Edward went ashore from the royal yacht to play a little bridge with the duchess of Manchester at her residence, Egypt house. He didn't want any fuss, so was accompanied by only one equerry. Reaching shore they hired a cab to drive to Egypt house. The driver did not know where it was and took them to the wrong place.

It was quite dark and the equerry got out and rang. A window upstairs was opened and two outraged old ladies peered out, demanding what all the noise was about. The king shouted up that he had come to play bridge with the duchess of Manchester. The angry ladies declared that they knew nothing about either bridge or duchess; that he was drunk and if he did not go away at once they would telephone for the police!

Not Really Chinese Dish

The truth seems to be that there is no such dish as chop suey known in China, although it is commonly served as Chinese throughout the United States. This has come about in a curious way. It originated at a dinner that Prince Li Hung Chang gave in New York when he made his trip around the world. Prince Li carried his own chef with him, and the menu was strictly Chinese. One of the dishes especially delighted the wife of the guest of honor, and she asked Li what it was. Prince Li called in his chef, and the chef replied in Chinese, "It is a creation of my own—a chop suey." The words "chop suey" mean a mixture or hash. Prince Li said in English, "It is a chop suey." The American woman spread the news of the chop suey, the wonderful dish. The name was taken up by the Chinese restaurants in America, and today chop suey is the chief concoction that they serve.

Left-Handedness

After a close study of several sets of identical twins, two eastern scientists have observed that there is an apparent relation between the tendency to left-handedness and the direction in which whorls in the hair curve, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

In every case where it was possible to determine whether the hair on the crown of the head grows in a right-handed, or clockwise, spiral it was discovered that the person had a more or less strongly developed tendency to right-handedness. If the whorl was curved to the left, the person was left-handed.

Weather Changes

The weather bureau says that day-to-day changes in the weather—one cold, next warm, then perhaps cold again—are mainly due to changes in the direction of the wind, and that in turn to changes in the distribution of air over the surface of the earth. The causes operating and their effects are rather complicated, but go back mainly to circulation between the equatorial and polar regions (caused by the heating of the tropical regions and the cooling of the polar regions) as modified by the effects of the daily rotation of the earth.

Canadian Metropolis

Years before adventurous white men penetrated inland into America, Indians gave the name "Toronto" to the place where trails and water routes converged at a bay of Lake Ontario's northern shore. Toronto means "place of meeting" in the Indian language, and thanks to the amazing progress of modern transportation it has grown from a tiny settlement where goods were brought for exchange to one of the largest cities in Canada and a great railway center with a population of nearly 700,000.

Interior Department

A grade school class was discussing the various departments of government.

The teacher called on a lad who had not been attentive.

"James, who is the head of the interior department?"

"I think the stomach," replied the lad.

Fireproof Linoleum

Introduction of a kind of linoleum that is almost incombustible, cheap, easy to handle and durable, has been announced in England. When it is heated to a high temperature, a chemical in it gives off a gas which stays close to the floor, cuts off the air supply and so smothers the blaze.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Fallacy Exploded

No one is chronically poisoned by certain kinds of foods and no one has his digestion ruined simply by eating certain kinds of food.—Dr. Logan Clendening in "The Human Body."

Texas in History

Texas became an independent republic in 1836 and a state in the American Union in 1845. In 1861 Texas seceded and shared the fate of the Southern Confederacy. From the close of the war in 1865 it was under the military rule of the United States until 1870, when complying with the requirements of congress, it was readmitted to statehood.

Is "It" Effective?

Circus Will Be Here Saturday

Saturday is circus day in Kingston when Christy Brothers circus will show at the Fair Grounds. There will be an afternoon and evening performance with a street parade at noon from the circus grounds down Broadway. At the top of the Broadway hill the heavy parade wagons will halt as it is not considered safe for them to make the descent, but the other sections of the parade will proceed to the Strand.

French Beggars Flock to Their Special Mass

The great church of Sacre Coeur (Sacred Heart) on the heights of Montmartre, Paris, has a feature that could not be duplicated in any other church in the world. Every Sunday morning at eight o'clock there is "Beggars' Mass." Painfully climbing the steps come hundreds of the down-and-outs of Paris, some hatless and shoeless, others in rags and still others bent over with physical infirmities. But they are proud of their special service, and the mass is said to them by the chief dignitary of the church. The service is complete in everything but the collection. As the poor go out each receives 25 centimes—a nickel in the old days—and a card good for a large piece of bread. On special church days the gift is increased, and the attendance is larger. An office is also maintained to help them get work. Speaking of these Sunday services a church dignitary said: "If there remains a spark under the ashes it may be fanned to flame. Many there are who owe to their coming here the straightening of a broken life."—Pathfinder Magazine.

Romance of Brownings Throve on Mere Words

By modern standards, says David Loth in "The Brownings," Robert Browning and Elizabeth Barrett starved their love cruelly. A handclasp was beyond all Robert's daring. A kiss was something mentioned in poetry but never attempted in real life. However, they derived a certain pleasure from the realization that their love could thrive on a diet of mere words. And of words they were prodigal indeed. Over the exchange of a lock of hair they lavished enough of ingenuity and lyrical expression to have made a trunkful of the kind of plays Robert wrote.

His letter suggesting that she trust him with a wisp of black curl was a masterpiece of dignified pleading worthy of a request for a couple of dukedoms and a principality. He felt greatly daring, and well he might. An admirer of Ba's poetry had only three weeks before made a similar though not so elegantly phrased plea.

"I am too great a prude for such a thing," she answered.

Probable Age of Earth

The Naval observatory says that it is believed that the solar system has existed in approximately its present form for many millions of years; but from our present knowledge on this subject we cannot state what may have been its condition at any definite period in the remote past, such as 500,000,000 years ago. A recent estimate, found in "Astronomy," by Russell, Dugan and Stewart, gives the earth's age as possibly some four or five billion years, but this is subject to future revision if other factors in the problem become known. It is supposed that the day was formerly somewhat shorter, and the moon somewhat nearer the earth than at present.

Noise May Grow

A great deal of the noise which assails our ears in a busy city, for instance, is not only due to the constantly increasing use of machinery but because the type of building construction now used tends to prolong and transmit noises. A bare plastered wall, for example, reflects noises better than a mirror reflects light. If you clap your hands together in a bare plastered room, more than 95 per cent of the noise will be reflected from the wall. The sound of the hand clap will, therefore, persist for several seconds. This phenomenon of reverberation causes noises to be built up and retained "alive" in a room in such a way that their intensity is actually increased.

American "Penny Press"

The History of American Journalism states that the precursor of the penny press was the Daily Evening Transcript, established in Boston July 24, 1830, by Lynde M. Walter. While this paper was not sold on the streets for one penny, it was quoted at the extremely low rate of $4 per annum. Probably the first daily that was actually sold for one cent was the Cent of Philadelphia, published in the same year as the Daily Evening Transcript in Boston. In New York city the idea was first conceived by Dr. Horatio David Shepard.

Worlds Closely Knit

Men speak of living in one world at a time, as if one world had nothing to do with another, whereas I cannot move a single hoeful of earth in my garden without it affecting stars so distant that their light requires millions of years to reach us.—John Andrew Holmes, in Detroit Free Press.

MANY AVIATORS SAVED FROM SEA

Daring Flyers Rescued After Having Been Given Up for Lost.

New York.—When the three Spanish aviators were rescued near the Azores a few days ago, one more chapter was written in the chronicle of airmen saved at sea after being given up for lost. A decade has passed since the era of ocean flying began. The year 1919 saw the completion of the first successful transatlantic flights—made by the United States naval plane NC-4 in jumps, and by Alcock and Brown without a stop—and the beginning of other attempts by airplanes to span the Atlantic, says the New York Times.

Harry Hawker and Kenneth Mackenzie-Grieve, English aviators competing for the London Daily Mail's $50,000 prize for a nonstop Atlantic flight, were the first to find that there was glory in a flight gallantly attempted. Hoping to beat the NC planes that were then already at the Azores, they shot eastward into the Atlantic fog off Newfoundland one night in May, 1919. They had no landing gear, and when no word of them reached the outside world at the end of a week, King George sent messages of condolence to their relatives and obituaries were printed in the newspapers.

Forced Down in Rough Water.

Meantime, the NC planes had been undergoing vicissitudes at sea. Two of them had been forced down in rough water. The NC-1 fortunately landed near an American destroyer. The NC-3, under Commander Towers, had got into an Azores port after fifty-two hours of navigating through heavy seas. Then the attention of the world was drawn back to Hawker and Mackenzie-Grieve again. One week after their disappearance they turned up in England on board a small Danish boat, the Mary, out of Copenhagen, that had miraculously picked them up 1,200 miles off the coast of Newfoundland after they had been forced down by a clogged motor at the end of fourteen and one-half hours of flying. Their welcome to England was an ovation of the sort that later flights have made the standard laurels of achievement in the air.

The round-the-world flight of the American naval planes in 1924 was not without forced landings and adventures of the lost. But it remained for the Italian airman, Locatelli, who, in a plane of his own, elected to accompany the American fleet across the North Atlantic, to provide the sea-rescue aspect. He was forced down near Iceland and given up for lost for three days. Then an American warship found him and brought him to port.

Two of the most spectacular of all air rescues took place in 1925. One, that of Amundsen and Lincoln Ellsworth, took place in the frozen seas at the top of the world, and victory over almost certain death in the wilderness was accomplished without aid from the outside until the end, so that it cannot, perhaps, properly be called a rescue at all. The other, that of Commander John Rodgers and his crew in their almost successful flight across the Pacific to the Hawaiian islands, was, in sharp contrast, set in tropic waters. There, for nine days, they fought against famine and heat, lack of water to drink and the threat of drowning. And in the end, like Amundsen and Ellsworth, they accomplished the main part of their rescue alone.

Engines Failed.

Amundsen and Ellsworth had conceived the dramatic idea of flying to the North pole and back in a single day. With their crews, they left Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, on May 21, 1925, in two seaplanes equipped with skis, sleds and provisions that might be of some use in case of emergency, but that lessened the total hazard of the undertaking scarcely at all. For what mattered primarily was whether engines and men could stand the certain stress ahead. The engines failed. After flying for nine hours Amundsen saw that there would not be enough fuel to complete the journey. The wind was against them. They could not go on. They were 140 miles from the pole—and beyond hope of rescue.

They landed, and Ellsworth's plane followed them to the surface of the ice field. Cracks of water opened up and separated the two parties.

Ellsworth's plane was so badly damaged that it was abandoned. Now the problem was to make the remaining plane rise from the broken ice field carrying a double load. For twenty-four days those men worked at building an ice slide for a runway. Afterward they estimated that they had shoveled 300 tons of ice. The foggy season was closing down on the Arctic. At last the day for the attempt to take off came. It was now or never. The six men got into the one plane, the machine roared down the track. One of two things was about to happen: they would rise, or they would go off the end of the runway they had built and be dashed to pieces on the rough field beyond. They rose. Once in the air the plane headed south and got into the open sea. There they landed near a harbor and taxied triumphantly up to a small sealing boat that carried them back to the land where wireless and cable flashed the news to the globe's four quarters that they had come through.

When Ruth Elder, accompanied by George Haldeman, set out in October, 1927, to give the American girl her place in the fierce white calcium light that beats about the thrones of transatlantic aviators, the attempt ended in those same waters near the Azores that have received so many flyers. Having made a record flight over water—2,623 miles, further than from San Francisco to Honolulu—a broken oil line forced them to desist at the end of twenty-eight hours, and they landed near the tanker Barendrecht, which carried them to Horta.

Use Radio to Put Pep Into Tahola Indians

Tahola, Wash.—Strains of music from the radio piercing the quiet and solitude of this Tahola Indian reservation hamlet, miles from civilization, has put pep into the Indians.

It seems that the Indians are very slow about pulling in their nets during the fishing season.

G. P. Halferty, salmon packer, has a fish house. He buys fish from the Indians.

But Halferty couldn't get action out of the redskin fishermen. He found their laziness annoying and costly, entailing much delay.

So he installed a radio.

Now when the strains of "She's My Baby" and "That's My Weakness Now," or some other popular jazz piece go roaring out of the fish house and out on to the waters, the Indians leap frantically in their canoes, pull in their nets and catch, and head for the fish house.

Halferty has no trouble getting his fish when he wants 'em as long as the radio tubes hold out.

140-Year-Old Virginia House to Be Rebuilt

Alexandria, Va.—Coiross, historically famous old residence here, built by Jonathan Swift in 1790, has just been purchased by John R. Munn of New York City, who plans to have it torn down and reconstructed in Princeton, N. J.

Swift built the house, originally named Belle Aire, while he was consul to Morocco and it was there that his daughter was married to Gen. Robideau of France. George Washington frequently referred to Swift in his memoirs.

Later Belle Aire became the property of the prominent Mason family and more recently it was owned by the Smoots, one of whom is now mayor of Alexandria.

Coiross lately has been battered by wind storms and has deteriorated to such an extent that several patriotic societies have called attention to it.

Fire Fighting Costly Luxury to Englishmen

Brackley, England.—Fire fighting is a hobby, and an expensive one, in this tiny village.

The Brackley fire brigade is purely an honorary and independent band of fire fighters, for the town council has never given it any money.

Thirty-two years ago they bought their present fire engine, but it is about to fall apart. The brigade, despite the council's refusal of money for a new engine, is going to buy one itself.

The fire fighters have saved $2,000 from charity fetes, and each of the members is donating approximately $200 out of his own pocket for the purchase of the new engine. Although this will not pay the entire price of the engine, three of the fire fighters are underwriting the remainder. The fire brigade drills three times a week and receives no pay.

Germany is considering imposing a gasoline tax.

CONNECTICUT TOBACCO MEN NEARLY RUINED BY HAIL

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 2 (AP).—Growers in Connecticut's chief tobacco raising area, centering about this city, faced ruin today because of heavy losses resulting from an electrical storm which, accompanied by violent hail and wind, took on the proportions here and there of a tornado. Some of the hailstones were two inches in diameter.

Conservative estimates placed the losses through destruction of tobacco crops alone at $1,250,000, while figures for the general damage, including that to floral and other crops and to property, set the aggregate losses at nearly $2,000,000.

The storm, breaking late yesterday, lasted three hours. For 35 minutes big hail stones fell. Windows were smashed, automobile tops torn and broken, signs hurled into streets and electric, telephone and telegraph wires broken.

Poor Kin

Caruso was a common sort of man, born with a glorious voice, which made him famous and rich. In the days of his prosperity, he had 21 relatives living at his house, and they nearly drove him crazy. Caruso was less satisfactory as an artist because of his poor kin; they may have killed him at a time when he still had a good deal of value in him. Every useful man is hampered by poor kin.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

MARLBOROUGH FOLKS TAKEN IN BY FALSE "REV. JENKINS"

Marlborough, Aug. 2.—About a year ago this time a colored man professing to be the Rev. D. J. Jenkins from the south, solicited funds in and about Marlborough for the benefit of the colored orphanage at Charleston, S. C. Two letters, one from the real Mr. Jenkins and the other from the chief of police of Charleston, received by a local society that had contributed, had informed them that the people of Marlborough had been imposed upon and that the colored man had collected money under false pretenses. According to reports the impostor was a smooth-talking man although some people in the town remember now that he mixed up several quotations from the Bible, which it seems he recited when receiving donations. So far as can be learned the man collected a rather tidy sum in this vicinity. The West Marlborough Missionary donated ten dollars some time ago, but becoming suspicious, due to the fact they had received no letter of thanks from the orphanage, as it is the usual custom, Mrs. Harris Dawes wrote to the Rev. Jenkins. He immediately answered stating he had never in his life been in Marlborough, or in fact, anywhere in this section, nor had he received any funds from Marlborough for the orphanage. He also stated that he expected to come north in a short time and would endeavor to visit Marlborough to prove to local people that he had never solicited money here. Another letter followed which was from the chief of police of Charleston. It seems that the police are on the lookout for the man who claims to be "Rev. Jenkins."

Dances at Ruby.

The regular Saturday and Sunday night dances will be held at the Ruby Hotel as usual. Since these weekly dances were inaugurated a few weeks ago they have become more popular each week. The hospitality of the Ruby Hotel to its patrons is well known throughout this section and as in the past a good evening's enjoyment awaits all those who contemplate attending. Music will be supplied by Prof. Eddie Rowe and his jazz band. Refreshments will be served.

STYLE
on the green and on the wrist

WHEREVER champions and modern people gather, there you will now see the Self-Winding Watch.

It is an unfailing companion in a busy world, and it excites the admiration of everyone who sees it.

It does not differ fundamentally from other fine watches except that it has no winding stem. Slip it on your wrist and forget about it until you wish to know the exact time. Wearing it for four or five hours is sufficient to keep it running for over a day. A special device maintains in the mainspring a uniform mean tension, an exclusive advantage of this watch. Pride of ownership and freedom from the endless inconvenience of forgetting to wind one's watch have made the Self Winding Watch the brightest fashion of the year.

We have this watch now on display.
